WAR IS SOON TO ENTER THIRD STAGE

KRUPP'S PREPARED GROUND IN FRANCE

Smelting Company at Caen Said to Have Imported Parts of Guns

BRANCH ESTABLISHMENT IN MIDDLE OF FRANCE

Enormous Blocks of Masonry for Siege Guns Had Been Built

London, Nov. 13.—A correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in northern France writes:

"France, like Britain and Belgium, has been a field for suspicious German undertakings, evidently begun with a view, some day of facilitating operations in war time. One of these enterprises has just come to light through an official decree, which declares the Thyssen contracts for coal and ore at Caen to have lapsed, and closes the mines and smelting furnaces of Diclette. This is one of the most astonishing enterprises, as it was not only a preparation for future gun emplacements, but the guns, or parts of them, had actually been shipped to France.

"A number of Germans, directly or indirectly, founded ironworks near Caen, which they called the Societe des Hauts Fourneaux de Caen, with a capital of 20,000,000 francs ($6,000,000 Krupps, it seems, was to have a branch establishment in the heart of France. Herr Thyssen, who had already obtained mining privileges in the rich iron ore fields of Perrieres and Soumont, in the department of Meurthe-et-Moselle, subscribed to the extent of 11,000,000 francs ($2,200,000) and it is well known that Thyssen is the owner of important ironworks in Germany.

"All the machinery and material for the new works of the Societe des Hauts Fourneaux de Caen were brought from Germany. An astonishing number of railway trucks and closed railway wagons reached the station of Caen. When opened, as recently as October 17, these wagons were found to contain very suspicious metallic parts. Some of these parts look very much like portions of gun carriages and fittings. In fact they are believed to be the parts necessary for placing the famous heavy German howitzers. The smelting furnaces and other works which had been undertaken were not finished at the time the war broke out, as they had been begun less than two years ago.

"The factories were to occupy an area of nearly 1,000 acres, and, curiously enough, one large piece of property, forming a single lot of nearly 400 acres, was at three kilometres only from Caen, and on a high plateau which commanded the town and its approaches. A railway track of wide gauge connects it with the main railway line and the station of Caen.

"In the course of the construction of the factories it was noticed that enormous blocks of masonry were built. The reason for building such solid stone foundations, it was explained to the workmen, was to prepare a solid basis for heavy machinery that was coming. Everybody now suspects what the 'heavy machinery' was to be. There is no doubt that they were German siege guns.

"Another strange coincidence is the fact that the mine of Diclette, belonging to the same company, was within dangerous proximity of the fort of Cherbourg."

KARLSRUHE CORNERED

London, Nov. 13.—It is rumored among shipping firms in London that the German cruiser Karlsruhe has been cornered.

DIXMUDE LOST BY FORCE OF NUMBERS

Germans Overwhelmed Defence Force but Victory Not Great Advantage

TOWN NEAR YSER HAS BECOME DEATH TRAP

Enemy's Ammunition is Deteriorating and Supply is Less

London, Nov 13.—The Times Flanders correspondent, describing the attack at Dixmude, says: "There were only two points, Dixmude and Nieuport, where the Germans could assume the offensive on the Yser, all the front between being impossible for fighting on account of flood. The force concentrated between Dixmude and Thorout was chosen for the attack.

"This morning the German batteries opened a heavy bombardment on the positions and kept it up through most of the day. This cannonade was the prelude to a violent infantry attack on the outskirts of Dixmude.

"The attack was made with great gallantry and very heavy fighting took place.

"The Germans came on in overwhelming numbers and toward evening the allies were compelled to retire. They fell back into the town, destroying the two bridges in their rear. The Germans thus won the bridge head.

"Strong reinforcements were brought up by both sides and fighting continued in and about the town. During the course of the afternoon a force of Germans succeeded in penetrating into the town and a desperate struggle went on in the streets.

"The capture of Dixmude or a part of it would be of no great advantage to the Germans. The town is almost entirely surrounded by water. More than once Dixmude has proved a death trap to the Germans, and it may well do it again."

The correspondent of the Daily Mail in Northern France, telegraphing under date of Wednesday, adds that the German position at Dixmude is very insecure, that the Germans are exhausted by their exertions and will probably be driven out again.

Evidence is accumulating, according to this correspondent, that the Germans are suffering from a shortage of ammunation and that the quality of their artillery and ammunition appears to have deteriorated. Heavy fighting, he says, continues around Dixmude.

GERMAN SUBMARINE SUNK OFF WESTENDE

French Torpedo Boat Charged Enemy's Vessel Which Sank and Did Not Come Up.

Paris, Nov 13.—A special from Dunkirk states that a French torpedo-boat sank a German submarine off Westende Belgium. The submarine, it appears, was trying to torpedo a French warship when the latter's commander caught sight of her periscope, put on full speed and charged down on the enemy, which disappeared. A large quantity of oil rose to the surface marking the spot where the submarine sank. The torpedo-boat sustained only slight damage and returned to port for repairs.

THE DOGS OF WAR: WHY THE GERMAN FLEET WILL NOT FIGHT

BERLIN DISMAYED BY VICTORIES OF RUSSIA

Censors Tried to Keep News Secret but Refugees Took It In Copenhagen, Nov. 13.—Profound dismay has been caused in Berlin by the news which had been carefully suppressed by the censor, that the Russian invaders have again crossed the eastern frontier and have advanced into the provinces of East Prussia and Posen. The news, though not published in the newspapers, has reached Berlin through refugees from the frontier districts of the invaded provinces, who fled to escape the horrors of war. The memory of the earlier Russian invasion of East Prussia was just beginning to fade from the memory of Berliners, and practically all the fugitives who had fled to the capital had been re-established in their homes. Their appearance in Berlin and other towns of the interior, in a state of greater panic than ever, has thus created a much greater impression than the earlier fighting.

The suppression of news by the censor increases the public anxiety, and the prevailing depression has been further augmented by news that has leaked through from Vienna that the return of civilians to their home in western Galicia around Cracow has been stopped by the Austrian government. These fugitives rushed from Galicia to Vienna during the earlier periods of the Russian invasion. More recently, during the operations in Russian Poland the authorities have been sending them home in batches. The sudden order that no more be allowed to return to Galicia for the present has created a very bad impression in Vienna and, indirectly, in Berlin.

The news of the latest Russian advance is being carefully suppressed by all the German and Austrian newspapers.

SPAIN HAS CAUSE FOR DISPUTE WITH GERMANY

Spaniards Said to Have Been Shot at Liege and Consulate Bombarded at Rheims.

Madrid, via Paris, Nov. 13.—The alleged shooting of five Spaniards by German soldiers at Liege and the bombardment of the Spanish consulate at Rheims were the subjects of a lively debate in the Cortes to-day. The foreign minister, Eduardo Dato, in reply stated that the German government had promised to investigate the Liege affair.

Deputy Sorrien, replying to the foreign ministers said that this was not enough. In his opinion Germany should be required to pay an indemnity.

SIX CRUISERS STEAM NORTH ON THE PACIFIC

Lima, Peru, Nov. 13.—The watchman on the lighthouse at Port Corral, Chile, reports that on Wednesday, November 11, he saw six cruisers steaming south. His opinion was that they were German ships. He could not identify them definitely, but believed that the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau were among them.

Port Corral is 45 miles south of Valparaiso. The above information was received here to-day by telegraph.

Valparaiso, Nov. 13.—The German cruisers Leipzig and Dresden steamed into Valparaiso harbor this morning and at once started taking on supplies of provisions.

Two Hundred Officers of Canadian Contingent Are Out of Work at Salisbury

Salisbury, Eng., Nov. 13.—There are more than 200 Canadian officers out of work. They are looking for employment. Since the reorganization of companies into platoons, according to the British system, they have been rendered jobless, nothing to do but report at headquarters every morning at 10 o'clock. Life to them is growing monotonous. These officers include a few majors, several captains and a great many lieutenants. The most qualified leaders remain with the Canadian force but those who did not come up to the standard were dropped.

And the question now is, "What is to be done with these officers? Many views are put forward, but one on which the most emphasis is laid is that they will be taken into Kitchener's army of 100,000 men. Officers are needed and there is a possibility that the Canadians will be given a chance to show what they can do.

There is also some talk of establishing a training school for Canadians at Aldershot. Major-general Sam Hughes was approached with regard to this and it is understood that he was quite favorably disposed.

Most of the officers who have been left out in the cold would like nothing better than a training course so that they may properly equip themselves.

Owing to the change about twelve officers, so it is said, have been dropped from each battalion, or 216 in all. As a matter of fact, there was a large surplus of officers in Valcartier who were sent over to England unattached to any unit, with expectation that work for them would be found there.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—A private letter received in Ottawa from a member of the Canadian contingent at Salisbury Plains describes in an exceedingly circumstantial manner an incident in the camp which has not before been related by cable or mail. The statement is to the effect that during the first week at Salisbury Plains one of the sentries, while on duty by the big water tanks, challenged an individual lurking in the shadow of the structure. The sentry's challenge was answered by a shot which entered his arm but which did not prevent him from returning the fire. According to the chronicler who afterwards helped to dress the wound of the sentry, the intruder was killed by the sentry. When the body was examined there was found several vials containing cholera germs intended apparently to spread disease through the drinking water among the troops. The writer states that the affair was hushed up by the authorities and kept out of the press.

NINETY-FOUR OFFICERS LOST IN NAVAL BATTLE

London, Nov. 12.—The admiralty publishes the names of fifty-two officers and warrant officers who were aboard the British cruiser Good Hope when it was sunk off the coast of Chile. The names include that of Rear-Admiral Sir Christopher Cradock, commander of the British ships.

The Monmouth had aboard forty-two officers. The captain of the Good Hope was Philip Franklin. The captain of the Monmouth was Frank Brandt.

TROOP STEAMER SENDS CALL FOR ASSISTANCE

EMPEROR ALTERS HIS TRADE-MARK

Those Vigorous Moustaches Have Been Clipped, and the Army is Depressed

Copenhagen, Nov 13.—The kaiser has clipped off the upstanding ends of his moustache. This startling change in the emperor's appearance was observed in the last day or two when the emperor was passing through Central Germany on his way to inspect a large number of recruits completing their military training.

The loss of the aggressively erect moustache extremities robs Wilhelm II. very much of his semi-ferocious martial appearance. When it was observed some time after the beginning of the war, that the kaiser's hair had turned white, no one paid much attention to the change, but the removal of the moustache ends has struck the public imagination and, strange as it may seem, has done more, perhaps, than anything else to convince the people of Berlin that the war outlook is becoming bad for Germany. The absolutely chastened aspect of the kaiser, due to the absence of his moustache ends, is attributed to his sadness about the German reverses. In these circumstances, his advisors may urge him to allow his moustache to attain its former conspicuous dimensions.

CANADIAN WEEK FOR SHIPPING IN LONDON

London, Nov. 13.—An effort is being made here to establish a Canadian shipping week early in the new year. Large retail houses are to be asked to give prominence to goods from the Dominion. This idea probably partakes of the ingenious turning to account of the "No trading with the enemy" propaganda, which lately has been extensively boom by newspapers. Agents-general and similar officers naturally give the proposal a benediction, but it is rather doubted by experienced observers whether the present is a suitable time for such an enterprise.

YPRES ATTACK IS REPULSED; ALLIES STILL HOLD TOWN

Fighting From Sea Coast to Lys Has Been Less Violent Than on Previous Days and Attempts by Germans to Cross Yser Canal Checked.

Positions Won North of the Aisne and Southeast of Soissons—Soupir and Chavonne Retained—Progress Made at St. Mihiel

Paris, Nov. 13.—The conviction is growing here that the period of German strategic offensive is drawing to a close and that the war, on both the western and eastern fronts is about to enter its third phase, that of a general German retreat into Germany.

The present violent effort in Ypres region, while it may have succeeded in bending the allies' line in a few places, has not succeeded in breaking it, and the attempt cannot be repeated under the same conditions.

Positions Maintained Without Change.

Paris, Nov. 13.—The French official announcement given out in Paris this afternoon says:

"From the seacoast as far as the Lys the fighting has been of a less violent character than on previous days. Several efforts of the Germans to cross the Yser canal at the western outlet from Dixmude and at other points of passage in the Amont district were checked. Generally speaking, our positions have been maintained without change.

"To the north, to the east and to the south of Ypres attacks of the enemy were repulsed at the end of the day at different points on our line, and that of the British army. From the region to the east of Armentieres and as far as the Oise there have been artillery exchanges and actions of minor importance. In the course of the last few days of foggy weather our troops have not ceased to make progress, little by little. They are to-day established almost everywhere at distances varying from 300 to 500 metres from the network of barbed wire entanglements of the enemy. To the north of the Aisne we have taken possession of Tracy Le Val, but with the exception of the cemetery to the northwest of this village, we have made slight progress to the east of Tracy le Mont, and to the southeast of Soissons.

Whole Detachment of Enemy Captured.

"In the vicinity of Vailley a counter attack by the Germans delivered against those of our troops who had retaken Chavonne and Soupir was repulsed. Equal failure attended the German efforts in the environs of Berry Au Bac. In the Argonne there has been a violent artillery duel. There has been minor progress in the vicinity of St. Mihiel and in the region of Pont a Mousson. A surprise attack delivered by our troops against the villages of Val and Chatillon near Cirey sur Vezouse made it possible for us to capture a detachment of the enemy..

"A German attack delivered against the heights of Mount Sainte Marie resulted in failure."

LORD GORDON LENNOX IS KILLED IN ACTION

London, Nov. 13.—Lord Bernard Charles Gordon Lennox, major in the Grenadier Guards and the third son of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, has been killed in battle, it was announced here to-day. Lord Gordon Lennox served in the South African war, and afterwards saw service in China.

BRITISH CASUALTIES NUMBER 57,000 MEN

London, Nov. 13.—The British casualties in the war up to October 31 were approximately 57,000 men of all ranks. This estimate was given by Premier Asquith in the House of Commons today in reply to a question by Edward T. John, member for East Denbighshire.

WOUNDED BRITISH SHAMEFULLY TREATED BY GERMAM SOLDIERS

Winnipeg, Nov. 13.—H. Matveld, a former resident of Amsterdam, Holland, who has been in Winnipeg a year, has received a copy of the Amsterdam Times, in which is an account written by one of the Times staff of what he saw on board a German hospital train at Lauden, Belgium, the train being en route from Thienen to Waremme. It stopped for forty minutes in order to procure food for the inmates of the stock cars which had been converted into temporary hospital wards, and the correspondent spied three badly wounded soldiers on board, so badly wounded and badly taken care of that they were in a dying condition. On inquiry, the newspaperman found out that these three Britishers had had nothing to eat for five days.

They were approached by a German at Lauden with a bowl of steaming hot soup. In their weakened condition they could not eat the soup, and expressed a desire for something of a more palatable nature. "Pigs, you will get nothing," said the guard.

The Times man over this action of the German soldiers, complained to an officer of the same nationality.

"These British are nothing but pigs," said the officer. "They are not fighting for their country; they are fighting for money. Therefore they are pigs."

The article also states that the German guards on the car in which were the wounded Britishers constantly maltreated the trio, several times even expectorating in their faces.

RUSSIA UPSETS GERMAN DATES PLAN FOR POLAND GOES WRONG

London, Nov. 13.—A Petrograd dispatch to the Post dealing with failure of the German plans says: "Three weeks ago the Germans planned to occupy Poland up to the Vistula, wintering in Warsaw and Ivangorod. They even brought reaping and threshing machines with them to gather the Polish crops and there were other indications of a prolonged stay. While established on the Vistula they were to assist Austria to recover Galicia.

"Unfortunately the Russian commander also has plans which he carried forward with iron rigidity, and it is believed that Russia is preparing to move on a wide front into Germany when the time comes. This front has still a considerable extent of German territotary to recover before it gets into line for this advance.

"Russia's present objective is Danzig."

The correspondent comments on Russian inventiveness as applied to the war. Besides a bath train, an invention by Prince Oldenburg has been of inestimable value in the Red Cross. It is a great vessel capable of holding 200 gallons of soup. It is easily and quickly moved and provides nourishment for 1,500 men the moment they are brought from the battlefield and makes a wonderful difference in the chances of life for the badly wounded.

The inventiveness of the Russians is also displayed in improved sighting appliances for the guns, making the Russian artillery most deadly.

LATE NIGHT WAR NEWS

BRITAIN IS TO RAISE ANOTHER MILLION MEN

Premier Asquith Probably Will Ask Issue of $1,000,000,000 War Loan

London, Nov. 12.—It is reported in the parliamentary lobbies that Premier Asquith will on Tuesday ask parliament's sanction for the raising of 1,000,000 additional troops for the purpose of the war, thus bringing the total up to 2,000,000 men.

It is understood that the government intends to issue a war loan of $1,000,000,000 or more, probably at 4 per cent. and redeemable within ten years.

It is estimated that Great Britain is spending $35,000,000 weekly on the war, and in addition to the war loan the government may propose to raise a further $250,000,000 by increasing the income tax to half a crown on the pound. This would provide for the next expenditure till March, the end of the fiscal year.

Wm. Joynson-Hicks, Unionist member of the House of Commons, reflected to-day the widespread anxiety concerning the presence of German spies in this country. He said there was a German in London who had been in touch with a German statesman and the firm of Krupp, and that two sons of the London agent of that firm had been sworn in as special constables in London. These men, Mr. Joynson-Hicks added, might be trustworthy, but they would be better under lock and key.

There are 70,000 alien enemies in the country, the speaker continued. It was certain that signals had been given the German submarines to enable them to torpedo British ships, he said, and that by some means a chart of the mined area had reached the Germans. Otherwise, Mr. Joynson-Hicks declared, the German squadron could not have got so near Yarmouth.

Reginald McKenna, the home secretary, in reply to Mr. Joynson-Hicks, said the government must be careful that no injustice was done any person. He said that at any rate his department was acting under the instructions of the military authorities.

ECUADOR AND COLOMBIA ARE WARNED BY ALLIES

Charged With Aiding Germans in Allowing Messages Sent and Supplying Coal.

Washington, Nov. 13.—France and Great Britain have warned Ecuador and Colombia in vigorous terms that violations of neutrality by those countries will not be tolerated.

The British and French ambassadors here have presented separately two notes formally notifying the United States of their representations to Ecuador and Colombia. No requests were made for action on the part of the United States, but hope was expressed that the American government would be able to impress upon the South American states the value of strict neutrality.

The two South American countries are charged with having permitted wireless messages to go to German ships and for allowing the German fleet to coal in their territory.

It was pointed out at the British embassy that the notes communicated to the American government were merely in accord with the usual custom of Great Britain in informing the United States of her relations with South American countries.

It was considered not unlikely, however, that the American government would notify Ecuador and Colombia of the receipt of the British and French notes. It is not believed, however, that the United States will interfere unless an open rupture developed between the South American countries and the allied powers.

The United States has hitherto refrained from becoming involved in alleged violations of neutrality in Mexico and elsewhere south of the Rio Grande.

RUSSIAN GENERAL STAFF ISSUES STATEMENT

Petrograd, Nov. 12.—The Russian general staff issued the following statement to-day: "In East Prussia on November 11 an action developed on the front of Stalluponen, Krouglianken and the region of Soldau. Our troops occupied Johanisburg (a small town of East Prussia, seventy miles southwest of Gumbinnen)."

"Beyond the Vistula battles of secondary importance occurred in the region of Kalisz (Russian Poland) and Neschava, where advance guards of the enemy sought to progress.

"The Carpathian Austrian rear guards maintained at the crossings on the upper San in the region of Sanok, were attacked by our troops.

"The siege of Przemysl, which was suspended during the period in which the Austro-German armies were on the offensive, has been re-established."

INDUSTRIAL CENTRES WERE TO BE SPARED

Paris, Nov. 13.—A dispatch to the Temps from Saint Omer says: "A map prepared by the German general staff was found recently in the possession of a German officer who had been made a prisoner. On the drawing certain districts of Roubaix and Tourcoign were specially indicated by marks made by a red pencil.

"When asked for an explanation of the markings the prisoner said he had received an order from Emperor William to spare these two cities, which are important industrial centres."

TWENTY-SIX CAVALRY TRAINS GO TO GERMANY

Retreat Passed From Ghent Through Brussels Last Week; Forts Are Protected.

Havre, Nov. 12.—The Belgian minister of war has received information from Belgium that last week twenty-six trains filled with German cavalry passed through Brussels coming from Ghent and going toward Germany. Large entrenchments, including barbed wire entanglements, have been constructed in the neighborhood of Namur, Dave, Andov and Liege, according to advices received by the minister. A majority of the civic guards of Brussels have deserted, refusing to sign agreements not to take up arms against Germany, it is said.

GERMANS HAD CONTROL OF AUSTRALIAN METAL

The Federal Attorney-General Makes Partial Statement in House of Representatives

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 12.—What is believed to be a great German combination to secure control of the metal output in Australia, or at any rate, the profits therefrom, has been discovered by the government as the result of raids on the premises of metal companies in Sydney, Melbourne, Brokenhill and elsewhere.

The federal attorney-general stated in the house of representatives yesterday that investigation of the mining companies' premises by the military authorities had shown that while British names appeared on the concerns, the real control was in German hands. This control, which was chiefly exercised direct from Germany, continued after the war broke out, and there was reason to believe yet that a great part of the profits of the metal trades was finding its way into German pockets. He very much doubted whether enough precautions had even yet been taken to prevent the output of metals finding its way to the Germans. He had also reason to believe that attempts were being made to trade with the enemy.

The result of an investigation into this phase of the question could not now be disclosed, but the information already obtained justified the government in taking action. Later, however, the fullest publicity would be given the matter.

As the result of statements that German stevedores were discharging the cargoes of the interned steamers in the port of Australia, the question was brought to the notice of the house of representatives. The minister of customs, Mr. Tudor, said that Australians were not just now taking any directions from Germans as to what ought to be done about the ships. There were no profits in the transaction, so the Germans could not benefit in any way by the discharge of the cargoes.

A case of an attempt to defeat the consorship has been brought to light at Auckland, where Councilor Gaudin, of that city, was arrested charged with bringing correspondence from the German residents of Samoa to Germans in New Zealand and elsewhere. Gaudin is held in custody pending further particulars from the authorities at Samoa.

There is little likelihood of the United States being allowed to import wool from Australia for some time to come, as Australia intends to conserve all her resources for the use of the motherland.

PETROGRAD RELIEF SENT TO PEOPLE OF WARSAW

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Nov. 13.—Representatives of the Petrograd relief fund from Poland has arrived here from the capital with fifty carloads of provisions for destitute families, and 260,000 rubles ($130,000) in money for the relief of the needy.

Russian soldiers continue to unearth near Warsaw German machine guns, rifles and ammunition which had been concealed by the Germans in mounds on the battlefields which had been given the appearance of graves. The presumption here is that the Germans intended to utilize this material in a new attack on Warsaw.

WILSON HEARS NEGROES CHAIRMAN IS NOT POLITE

Delegation Challenges President's Contention Regarding Segregation of Colored Employees.

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Wilson, while receiving a delegation of negroes yesterday who came to the White House to protest against segregating the races in government departments, objected to the tone adopted by their spokesman, W. M. Trotter, of Boston, and told the committee that if they called again they would have to get a new chairman. The president added that he had not been addressed in such a manner since he entered the White House.

The delegation charged that Secretary McAdoo and Comptroller Williams in the treasury and Postmaster-General Burleson had enforced segregation rules in their offices. President Wilson replied that he had investigated the question and had been assured there had been no discrimination in the comforts and surroundings given to the negroes.

Trotter and other members at once took issue with the president, declaring the negro people did not seek charity or assistance, but that they took the position that the negro had equal rights with whites, and that these rights should be respected. They denied there had been any friction between the two races before the segregation was begun.

President Wilson listened to what they had to say and then told the delegation that Trotter was losing control of his temper and that he (the president) would not discuss the matter further with him.

DUKE IS AT FRONT.

Paris, Nov. 12.—A dispatch to the Temps from Bordeaux says that Ernest August, Duke of Brunswick, son-in-law of Emperor William, reported wounded in action, left Brunswick November 1 and returned to the front.

HUNDRED DETECTIVES SEEK BOMB THROWERS

New York, Nov. 12.—One hundred detectives spread a dragnet over New York City to-day in their quest for the men who wrecked the entrance to the new Bronx country courthouse and the city marshal's office by powerful bombs last night.

The detectives followed the theory that the bombs were exploded by a band of traffickers in women, most of whom had been sentenced to long prison terms. More than a score of letters had been received by County Judge Louis D. Gibbs, who sentenced them, warning of vengeance, some of them threatenning him with the death King Humbert received.

One of the bombs was intended for him, detectives believe. Three girls were slightly injured by the explosion and thousands of persons swarmed into the streets from their homes. For blocks in every direction windows were shattered and houses rocked.

HUMAN BEINGS CAN CATCH CATTLE DISEASE

Washington, Nov. 13.—The foot and mouth disease now raging among cattle in fourteen states is communicable to humans, the department of agriculture announced yesterday, but its effect rarely is serious. The department urged, however, that humans keep away from diseased cattle to avoid spreading the infection, and recommended the use of pasteurized milk.

APPOINTMENT IMPERIAL.

Ottawa, Nov. 11.—The appointment of a successor to Hon. T. Chase Casgrain on the international joint commission will be made by the imperial and not the Canadian government. The latter will, however, submit a recommendation for appointment, but it has not yet been done.

VILLA ARMY MARCHES TO ATTACK CARRANZA

Gutierrez is Sworn in as Provisional President of Aguas Calientes Convention

Washington, Nov. 13.—General Villa, at the head of a large column of troops, is marching south from Aguas Calientes to attack the Carranza forces under General Gonzales at Queretaro. Official advices to-day say the Aguas Calientes convention ordered the movement of General Blanco, who has announced his intention of remaining loyal to the convention, and started for Mexico City to take command of his troops but was arrested at Silao by General Gonzales. George C. Carothers, American consular agent, reported that he was accompanying Villa on his march south.

Uncertainty ruled again to-day in the Mexican situation.

General Eulalio Gutierrez has taken the oath of office as provisional president of the Aguas Calientes convention, which simultaneously declared General Carranza, hitherto first chief of the constitutionalists, as being in rebellion. Many generals, who swore their allegiance to the convention, are leaning toward Carranza, while some of his most loyal followers are preparing to desert him.

This was the tenor of the official dispatches to-day from American Consul Silliman at Mexico City and Leon Canova, special agent at Aguas Calientes. In the meantime President Wilson and Secretary Bryan were awaiting further word from Mexico before announcing the date of the evacuation of Vera Cruz.

ALLIES' CANNON KEEP GERMANS ACROSS YSER

Occupation of Dixmude Not of Great Advantage Yet to the Enemy.

London, Nov. 12.—The occupation of Dixmude by the Germans, announced yesterday, is generally considered as a matter of little import in the campaign in Flanders. It is pointed out that Dixmude is east of the Yser river, where the line of battle has raged for more than three weeks, and that the Gemans still have two miles to traverse before they will reach the Yser at that point.

It is not believed that the German assaults on Dixmude constitute a part of their main effort, which is directed further south. Before Dixmude are Furnes and Dunkirk, in a region similar to that between Nieuport and Ostend, where light draught British and French gunboats would threaten German occupation.

Greater strategical advantage is seen in the possession of Ypres by the British and French troops, with the converging highways and rivers.

Furious fighting occurred yesterday in the vicinity of Langemarck, and between it and Roulers, in which the allies regained ground lost the previous afternoon.

Aviators report the movement of troops and heavy guns on a large scale in the interor of Belgium, some going towards Germany, others towards Antwerp, and yet others toward Courtrai.

MONGOLIAN SITUATION DEBATED AT KIAKHTA

Peking, Nov. 13.—There is now in session at Kiakhta, Siberia, a conference concerning the present situation of Mongolia, at which the three interested powers are represented, each by a delegate. The Chinese delegate is said to be maintaining an uncompromising attitude.

There have been rumors in Peking, emanating from German sources, that Chinese troops in Mongolia were moving toward the Russian border, and an effort has been made to connect this activity with the deadlock of the conferees.

Inquiries, however, have brought denials from the Chinese authorities of the military activity, and the reports are elsewhere discredited.

JOSEPH MARTIN WOULD RUN FOR MAYOR'S SEAT

Must Have Aldermanic Candidates Behind Him and Will Not Canvass

Vancouver, Nov. 13.—Joseph Martin, K. C., is quite willing to enter the mayoralty contest if there is a public demand that he shall, and he will do so on the platform as drawn up by the civic reform association provided there are sufficient aldermanic candidates who will adopt the same platform and be willing to support him in the administration which he would inaugurate if elected.

At a meeting of the association held in the Labor temple, which was poorly attended, last night Mr. Martin gave this assurance.

He would not run, however, or engage in a serious fight unless he saw a general demand that he should enter the contest. "I don't want the office," he said, "and there is no personal advantage in my seeking it, but if the citizens take any step that will satisfy the association and myself that there is a strong desire that I should run then I will. I am a strong politician, as is well known, and I might be a candidate for the Dominion house in the near future, and the last thing that I desire is to have the mayoralty contest become a matter of party politics. I would not run if I thought that, because of my strong political leanings it would militate against the success of the campaign of the association.

"I think that it would rather invite political contest and that my opponents might take full advantage of the fact, and for that reason I would rather not be a candidate. It is against my practice and I will not canvass. It is a bad system and I will not do it. The most that I will do will be to speak when required and place before the electors the present situation and condition of municipal politics and support and explain the platform of the association. I will not go to any large expense, but contribute the same as other ratepayers.

"I will not try and be elected by a lavish expenditure of money. I would consider it an honor to be elected, and in taking the position that I was fulfilling a duty or obligation to the city and the electors, but I would also consider that I was sacrificing a good deal as the position requires the giving of considerable time.

"Another matter that will weigh heavily with me, if the people desire me to run, is the coming forth of good aldermanic candidates. It would be a hopeless task to work with a council in opposition, but if there are a number of candidates likely to be elected with whom I could work on general principles, I will consider it. The new men should be well known, with interests in the city, and prepared to adopt all or most of the association's platform and to support the administration which I would inaugarte if elected. If such men are not prepared to come forward then I would be loath to enter the contest.

"I would like an expression from the labor organizations as to my candidature. I consider it would be difficult to run unless I had their support. It need not necessarily be an official expression of opinion, but I would not like to run counter to their wishes, as I would consider it unwise to do so, as labor has an important part to play in using its great influence in getting out good candidates in the coming civic elections."

WEAR RED FLOWERS AND WELCOME PASTOR BACK

New York, Nov. 12.—Bouck White, pastor of the Church of Social Revolution, was discharged to-day from the Queen's county jail. He had served six months' sentence for raising a disturbance in Calvary Baptist church. A delegation of fifty friends, each wearing a red flower, welcomed him enthusiastically in the jail yard. An automobile, draped with flags, took him away.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 13.—After he and his older brother had set their house afire, Thomas, the two-year-old son of Thomas B. Lovelace, a mail carrier, was burned to death here yesterday. He had previously been carried out of the burning house by his parents, but he ran back while they were trying to save their household goods and was suffocated. Lovelace and his wife escaped the flames by leaping from second-story windows with their four small children.

RECOMMENDS BIG POOL TO STAVE OFF PANIC

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 13.—Formation of a $250,000,000 pool to buy bonds and stocks that may be thrown on the market by panic-stricken investors and thus insure the immediate opening of the stock exchanges in this country was recommended by Charles B. Caldwell, of Chicago, president of the Investment Bankers' association of America, in his address at the opening session of the annual convention of the organization in this city yesterday.

TILLY ALCARTRA HOLDS YEAR'S RECORD FOR MILK

Woodland, Cal., Nov. 12.—A new world's record for milk production is set by the five-year-old Holstein-Fresian cow, Tilly Alcartra, of the blooded herd of A. W. Morris & Sons. A record of 29,592 pounds of milk in one year was broken two years ago when Tilly passed that mark, set by a Massachusetts cow.

The record was formerly held by Riverside Sadie de Kel Bruke, of the Morris herd, at 28,826 pounds, before being taken by the eastern cow. Tilly Alcartra, the new champion, has passed the 30,000-pound mark, and the year will be ended to-night, when the exact mark will be determined.

THE WAR.

Wire trouble to-day interrupted our telegraph service, and at the time of writing the French war office bulletin is not available here. According to announcements from Paris and London yesterday evening the allies maintained their grip upon the Nieuport-Ypres line and the Germans have been unable to advance beyond Dixmude, which fell into their hands on Wednesday. The Germans who crossed the Yser west of Langemarck for the most part have been driven back, and all attacks upon Ypres, the wedge driven into the German line, have been repulsed. This quick recovery has been invariably the case where the allies have lost ground. Around Arras, on the Yser, north of the Aisne, and on the heights of the Meuse, the Germans have driven the allies back and in every instance have themselves been thrown out of their positions. From this we may conclude that the allies are not engaging in an offensive campaign in force except at those points the possession of which strengthens or improves their general position. The longer the German machine has to operate away from its base the greater will be the wear and tear to which it will be subjected. The allies merely have to hold their own to win the war, and this they seem to have no trouble in doing, although they, too, are suffering heavy losses.

It is evident, however, that the British authorities anticipate an invasion of Germany sooner than they expected when the war began, for they now are seeking the enlistment of another million men. The alteration in their schedule has been due largely to the extraordinary progress of the Russians, who now are about to invade the richest province of the German empire with all their colossal strength. Russia is anxious to finish the job early and is massing an enormous number of men along Posen and Silesia, as well as in East Prussia, which is now being invaded, and in Galicia, where the main Austrian army is in serious difficulty. The latter seems to have been driven to the Carpathians and the Russians hold the other three sides. Escape through the passes now filled with snow will be a perilous operation, and we may anticipate either the surrender or the annihilation of a large part of the forces commanded by General Dankl, a prospect due to no fault of the Austrian troops or their leaders, but to the crass stupidity of the German campaign in Russian Poland. On the other hand the Russian armies are being handled with marvellous efficiency. Not one of them has been in danger. There has been no confusion in their operations. Each has performed its allotted task with true Russian thoroughness. Whoever is directing their campaign is a soldier of supreme ability.

We look for some interesting news from the south Pacific and Atlantic. The German cruisers Leipzig and Dresden have entered Valparaiso in Chile, ostensibly for supplies. This is the first time they have been reported since the naval battle off Coronel on November 1, and we are inclined to suspect that their visit to Valparaiso at this stage is an enforced function. Somewhere off the Chilean coast there must be a strong Anglo-Japanese fleet. We shall be surprised if the Leipzig and Dresden leave Valparaiso at all. The Scharnhorst, Gneisenau, Nuernberg and Bremen are still in South Pacific waters, and the Karlsruhe is reported to be bottled up on the South Atlantic coast. When these seven vessels have been accounted for Germany's whole overseas naval strength will have been wiped out, and unless some of her cruisers escape from the North Sea, which is scarcely likely, the shipping of Britain, France, Russia and Japan will be as safe as it was before the outbreak of war

RETRIBUTION AND REMORSE.

Exclamation of a German soldier writing of what he had seen in the wake of the Kaiser's army: "One's heart stops still at the thought—what if this misery were to befall our own people in the dear Fatherland!" Remark of a British soldier upon the same subject: "We have entered upon this war with clean hands. Pray God that the same may be said after the war is over!" Belgium has been overcome by the superiority of the German hordes, but the spirit of her ruler and people has not been conquered. The unfortunate populace have been left little "but their eyes to weep with." Even yet, although the world is aghast at the thought of what has befallen a peacefully inclined, industrious, yet spirited and gallant little nation, the ruthless invader is not satisfied with his work. He continues to levy tribute at the point of the bayonet, to seize the bread intended for the mouths of starving children, and to threaten the destruction of towns and villages if his imposts are not forthcoming. No wonder the hearts of the German common soldiers are appalled and their imaginations wrought to a high pitch at the thought of the fate of their own people should it ever be in the power of the soldiers of any one of the allied nations to exact retribution for the wrongs of stricken Belgium.

MORE COLD WATER.

A dispatch from Ottawa to our morning contemporary says the Naval Service Department is inclined to discourage the formation of a Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer corps at Ottawa, which it was proposed to do under the act passed by parliament this year. The department has refused the recognition of such a corps. The reason advanced was that no volunteers were required at the present time for naval purposes.

We have hoped that one of the first political effects in Canada of the war would be the eradication of the final vestiges of Nationalist influence from the councils of the dominant party, but evidently the hope was futile. The government seems to have set its countenance sternly against the furtherance of the naval volunteer movement. Here all sorts of obstacles were placed in the way from its inception. This is due to the desire to save the faces of the element associated with Blondin, Pelletier, Nantel et al, which won its election through bitter hostility to the organization of a Canadian navy and anything which might promote that policy. Instead of the Nationalist influence declining, it has become stronger. The exploit of the Sydney and the dependence of the Pacific coast for portection at this critical juncture to some extent upon a foreign country seem to have taught no lesson. However, we might have surmised this from the elevation to the cabinet of Dr. Blondin, the man who in his campaign speeches declared that "Canada owed nothing to England and the English" (Drummond-Arthabaska, November, 1910), and who boasted that it had been "necessary to shoot holes in the Union Jack to breathe the air of liberty."

IMPERVIOUS TO CONVICTION.

"Referring to the war and the progress of naval warfare on the Pacific, Mr. Barnard recalled the facts of the naval question as it recently affected Canadian politics, pointed out where, even had the Liberal policy been followed out, this coast would not have been better protected than it is at present, and showed how Canada might to-day have in the first line of battle worthy ships representing her in the great struggle."—Mr. Barnard at Conservative smoker.

Mr. Barnard surpassed himself in the foregoing observations. The Canadian navy policy of 1910 called for the establishment on this coast of two fast cruisers of the "Town" class, of which the Sydney is a distinguished representative, three submarines and a training ship. These would have afforded ample security for this coast besides protecting Canadian commerce. Their presence here would have released the Newcastle for service in the South Pacific, where she has been badly needed, and made it unnecessary for us to depend upon the assistance of Japan. When the war opened our only protection was provided by the Rainbow, which had been acquired by the late government for training purposes and not as a fighting ship. If Mr. Barnard had been able to work his will we would not have had even the Rainbow.

As for the representation of Canada in the North Sea, Mr. Barnard knows, or ought to know, that even had the contribution proposal been passed shortly after it was introduced the three ships would not have been ready for service by this time. Great Britain has an enormous preponderance of naval power in the North Sea. There is a fairly strong Russian fleet in the Baltic. France has a number of ships in the Channel and in the Atlantic and a very powerful fleet in the Mediterranean, acting in conjunction with a formidable British squadron. Mr. Barnard seems to be one of those people who would regard the glory of being represented in the North Sea as fitting compensation for the desolation of his own province's coast. There is none of his kidney in Australia or New Zealand. The latter had followed the policy advocated for Canada by Mr. Barnard, and, according to her Prime Minister, is now thanking Providence for the protection afforded by the powerful Australian fleet unit.

THE CROWN PRINCE.

The German Crown Prince is no soldier, but he has marvellous powers of recuperation. Since the war began he has been killed four times, and, as far as we can recall from the reports, was buried twice, the ceremony in the other instances being deferred or dispensed with. He has been wounded times without number. In fact, still sticking to veracious rumor, he celebrated the outbreak of hostilities by being attacked by an anarchist while on the way to the front. He has not worked into the class of the Emperor Menelik of Abyssinia, whose resurrections from the tomb became so frequent that newspapers finally dismissed the news of them as not of sufficient interest or importance to demand publication; but the young man should be given time. Nevertheless we must admit that had Menelik the opportunities which now confront the heir to the German throne he would have succumbed ninety instead of an insignificant nine times.

All reports, however, are consistent on two or three points. One is that Frederick William had charge of the Third German army; that they captured the fortress of Longwy when they debouched from Luxemburg, an event which caused a veritable shower of iron crosses to fall in their direction, and that Joffre trapped them between Chalons on the Marne and the Meuse and drove them into the forest of Argonne with terrible losses. The rain of iron crosses ceased. Shortly afterwards Frederick William left for the eastern front to facilitate the crushing defeats of the German army by the forces of the Czar, led by real generals.

The German Kaiser and the war party which controls his policy are endeavoring desperately to make the Crown Prince a popular hero and to justify that young man's bumptious militarism which alienated from him the saner element of the German people. So far every army he has led has been beaten with enormous sacrifices of men and supplies. His crack regiment, the Death's Head Hussars, has been thinned so greatly that not long ago a plebeian cavalry battalion was permitted to wear the gruesome symbol on its headgear. The stars in their courses are fighting against the Hohenzollerns, sovereign and crown prince. For the present the safest place for both is Potsdam. Some day they may find comparative security only in a Zeppelin above the clouds.

THE BRITISH WAY.

One of the outstanding characteristics of the British people is the generosity with which they have treated their foes, a trait which the Germans, according to their lights, have regarded as a sign of weakness and an absolute proof that those who show it would be an easy prey for a nation of real warriors who believed that defeated enemies should be left with "nothing but their eyes to weep with." But the British way has won for the allies the sympathy of every enlightened people in the world. The German way has made Germany a veritable pariah among nations, leaving her with only the dubious friendship of Turkey. It forever dispelled the illusion of German culture and if we accept the view of the influential press of N. York never again will thousands of young men and women make pilgrimages to Berlin, Leipzig and Vienna to sit at the feet of those professors of art and science who defend the rape of Belgium.

Our observations on this subject have been suggested by the comments in the British press on the achievements of the late cruiser Emden. The London Times salutes Captain von Muller as "a brave and chivalrous foe," whose life, it hopes, has been saved. The British race, it says, knows how to admire a daring and resourceful seaman. The Morning Post says the conduct of von Muller has been brave without being brutal and is something to set against the inhuman and bestial cruelties practiced by the German army, especially the officers, on the civil population of Belgium and northern France. The Daily Mail describes the German captain as an enterprising and honorable fighter. All the other big journals pay similar tributes to von Muller, for whom Australia is arranging a warm welcome. Imagine the shrill-tongued German press adopting so magnanimous a tone towards a British naval officer! We rather expect it to demand that von Muller be court-martialled because of the exhibition of those qualities of humanity which won for him the admiration of his foes.

Major-General Sam Hughes in a farewell address to a Kingston battalion told the soldiers he would meet them in Berlin if he did not see them again before they left Canada. Can there be any connection between that remark and the despairing act of the Kaiser in cutting off the up-turned ends of his aggressive moustache?

\+ \+ \+

A cable dispatch announcing that the Kaiser's moustache has been trimmed into harmony with the condition to which he has brought the Fatherland may seem a trivial thing to pay tolls upon, but consider the opportunity it will afford many clever cartoonists.

\+ \+ \+

Col.—beg pardon—Gen. Sam has been telling Canadian soldiers he will meet them in Berlin. We gather from facts which have reached us from Ottawa and elsewhere that Sir Robert Borden would be considerably relieved in mind if Gen. Sam were in Berlin now.

PRO PATRIA.

From Punch.

Britons, in this great fight to which
Because where honor calls you go you must,
Be glad, whatever comes, at least to know
You have your quarrel just.

Peace was your care; before the nations' bar
Her cause you pleaded and her ends you sought;
But not for her sake, being what you are,
Could you be bribed and bought.

Others may spurn the pledge of land to land,
May with the brute sword stain a gallant past;
But by the seal to which you set your hand
Thank God, you still stand fast!

Forth, then, to frost that peril of the deep—
With smiling lips and in your eyes the light,
Steadfast and confident, of those who keep
Their storied 'scutcheon bright.

And we whose burden is to watch and wait—
High-hearted ever, strung in faith and prayer,
We ask what offering we may consecrate,
What humble service share.

To steel our souls against the lust of ease;
To find our welfare in the general good;
To hold together, merging all degrees
In one wide brotherhood;—

To teach that he who saves himself is lost;
To bear in silence though our hearts may bleed;
To spend ourselves, and never count the cost,
For others' greater need;—

To go our quiet ways, subdued and sane;
To hush all vulgar clamor of the street;
With level calm to face alike the strain
Of triumph or defeat;—

This be our part, for so we serve you best.
So best confirm their prowess and their pride,
Your warrior sons, to whom in this high test
Our fortunes we confide.

WATCHFUL WAITING.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The situation in the North Sea imposes exceedingly onerous conditions upon the British fleet, for the German vessels are under the shelter of their land fortifications and they possess every advantage of position and opportunity for the successful sortie. If the German fleet could be drawn into the open the advantage would be with the British, but as long as the German ships keep out of range the British trial of "watchful waiting" must be endured with such patience as the British seamen can command.

\+ \+ \+

ANTI-VANDALISTIC.

Erie Dispatch.

There is a movement on foot in Great Britain to restore the Louvain library immediately after the war. It is a fine thought, and as an indication that Germany also is not vandalistic and does not wish the destruction of the homes of science and art in the world, the cooperation of some Germans in the work after the war would be very inspiring.

BARBARISM.

New York Herald.

Of course, it may be a sign of lack of "Kultur" on our part, but some way we Americans cannot help feeling that this business of German levies upon the helpless little cities and towns of Belgium smacks mightily of the days of Genghis Khan.

Appeal is Adjourned.—The appeal case of Rex v. Ruffini, from a conviction for illegal selling, has been adjourned until Monday afternoon, before the county court judge.

☆ ☆ ☆

Seriously Injured.—Suffering from a badly crushed leg where a huge rock had fallen on it at the Sir John Jackson quarries, John Quineley was conveyed to the Jubilee hospital yesterday and is there receiving attention. The injured man was brought in a launch to the Inner Harbor, where the police patrol with Constable Elliott was waiting. First-aid was rendered, and a quick run was made to the hospital.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Tax Collections.—Detailed figures prepared by the city treasurer show that the taxes which were paid this year up to October 31, when the period of rebate as at first set, ended, were, general, $1,389,020; water frontage, $12,709; boulevard, $22,278; cluster lighting, $4,985; sewer rental and construction, $30,806; total, $1,459,799. This leaves $714,924 to be collected, the total authorized levy being $2,174,723. The rebate may be obtained up till the end of November.

☆ ☆ ☆

Improving Roadways.—The street gangs in Esquimalt are at work on the roadways of the town, getting them in order for the winter. The streets on which sewer laying has been in progress during the summer are naturally in rather bad state, and in the eastern end of the town some of the streets have been cut up by the heavy traffic on them owing to the concentration of troops within the town creating a constant stream of heavy wagons and trucks with supplies and munitions. The men are being employed just now in scraping the roads, laying broken rock where required and providing for the draining off of the surface water.

☆ ☆ ☆

Passed Standing Car.—The first of the numerous stages running between the various suburbs and the city to come into collision with the police authorities was the Fowl Bay stage. On Tuesday it passed a standing street car, in which happened to be Constable Simmonds. An information was laid and C. F. Swain had to pay $20 into the city coffers this morning in the police court. Col. Thomson, engineer of Strathcona park, was a witness for the prosecution. The police are enforcing the rule of stopping a motorcar behind a halted street car very rigorously these days, as several accidents have occurred recently through contravention of this very necessary regulation.

☆ ☆ ☆

Still Unsolved.—In spite of the fact that an officer in the provincial police service Wednesday visited the bones recently found by four Victoria hunters near the Summit, the mystery surrounding their identity still remains unveiled. A vigorous search prosecuted all over the neighborhood failed to bring forward another single clue, and the problem of the man's death remains unsolved. The officer found that the skeleton was that of a short man, probably about five feet two in height. The fingers and toes were missing, and one of the bones showed signs of decay, demonstrating that the skeleton has been there for a long time, though the dampness of the ground where it was found may mitigate that opinion. Diligent search, however, failed to discover so much as a button, so the bones were decently buried near where they were found and left with their message still unread.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Victoria Times, November 13, 1889.

Last evening the British Columbia canners, represented by A. McEwen, T. E. Ladner, Jas. Laidlaw, D. J. Munn, E. A. Wadhams, R. Draney, H. Harlock, R. Burns, D. R. Harris, M. Strouss and S. A. Spencer, entertained the Victoria agents at dinner at the Poodle Dog. Among the guests were Hon. J. H. Turner, Robert Ward, R. P. Rithet, Thomas Earle, Capt. John Irving and M. T. Johnson. A number of important questions affecting deep sea fishing were discussed.

To-morrow evening the scholars of the High school, assisted by the best local talent, will give an entertainment in aid of the gymnasium fund.

Mr. Justice Drake declined in Supreme Court this afternoon to grant an order to Capt. Wallace to allow five Orientals to land. Proceedings were brought under the Restriction Act, five Chinese who came over from China on the last voyage of the Parthia had been refused a landing at Vancouver by the collector of customs on the grounds that the certificates possessed by them were insufficient, and there was reason to believe that the Chinese had not been in Canada before.

IS ACQUITTED

Neil Morrison Freed of Charge of Theft; Magistrate Makes Comment.

Neil Morrison was acquitted this morning by Magistrate Jay on a charge of having stolen the sum of $100 from the person of George Macaulay, an old shipmate. In discharging the accused, his worship remarked that the circumstances were exceedingly suspicious, though the evidence of the informant was such that little recognition could be taken of it, the witness being in a drunken condition at the time he lost his money. The fact which was most favorable to the accused was that up to a short time ago he had been honorably employed, and had a good reputation. This and the lack of downright evidence pointing to guilt induced the magistrate to find in favor of him.

Yesterday Macaulay told his story of having wandered about the street all day Saturday with the accused, and of leaving the Jubilee hotel with over $100 in his pocket. After that he remembered no more until he awoke in his room at a Johnson street hotel and found that he had scarcely any money left. One feature of the prosecution's evidence, which was sworn to by Detective Murray, who with Detective Macdonald made the arrest, was that in the earlier part of the day Macaulay had two one-cent pieces in his pocket, while after his awakening in the hotel there was only one. A single one-cent piece was found on the prisoner after a search. Rebuttal against this was brought by Mr. Patton, counsel for the accused, in the testimony of the boatswain of the Quadra, on which boat accused had been employed, that he had seen Morrison paid part of his wages in one-cent pieces.

Testimony damaging to the accused was brought by a witness named McLeod, whom City Prosecutor Harrison named as "a most intelligent witness." He swore to seeing Morrison pass a ten-dollar bill to a bartender and receive change. This taken in conjunction with the statements of other witnesses that Morrison was "dead broke," was the main prop of the prosecution. Another fact was that the accused had declared in the detective office that he had only thirty cents on him, while a search revealed well over three dollars.

Good character evidence was brought by the defence.

A HEATED ARGUMENT.

Two men stood talking on Government street this morning, one had a bundle under his arm. He looked good and sore, and on hearing the statement which he gave it seems he had a just grievance, this is what he related. I wanted to buy a suit so went into a gent's furnishing store; there I was waited on by one of the clerks who sold me this suit, pointing to the bundle. Not knowing very much about suit-buying I took the suit and paid twenty-five dollars for it. Immediately it struck me that I had not seen it in daylight, not thinking about that when I made the purchase. I immediately opened it up, and to my disgust I found that the cloth was a cheap serge and that the dust from the store was ground right into the cloth. There's nothing to it, he said, I am stung. Whereupon his friend advised him to return it immediately which he did and received his money back. His friend then took him down to Mackinnon's, a place he knew always gave a square deal. There he bought a high grade suit for fifteen dollars and also twenty dollar overcoat for ten, so you can see what sort of a deal he made; he bought the two for the price he was charged on the first suit, and received far better value.

Had No Number Plate.—For driving a motor car on Douglas street without having a rear number plate, H. Baynes was this morning fined $5 in the police court. The information was laid by Constable Littlefield, on point duty at the corner of Yates and Douglas streets.

☆ ☆ ☆

Motor Broke Down.—The breakdown of a motorcar on the far end of the Malahat drive prevented R. C. Lowe from appearing in the police court this morning as counsel for Mar Kee, a Chinaman, who is accused of theft. Bail was allowed and the accused will be tried to-morrow morning.

☆ ☆ ☆

Court of Revision.—At ten o'clock on Monday morning the November court of revision of the voters' lists for the electoral districts of Victoria city and Esquimalt will open in the court house before Harvey Combe, the registrar of voters for those districts. The proceedings will be more or less formal this time, as there are few objections to be considered and there are not many applications for registration.

☆ ☆ ☆

Information Wanted.—Information is wanted as to the whereabouts of William Crichton McNabb, who was last heard from in this vicinity in July 1913. The missing man is of fair complexion, stands five feet five inches in height and has blue eyes. The top of his little finger on his right hand is missing. He has a tatoo mark on his chest. His brother in London would appreciate the sending of any information as to his whereabouts to the Victoria detective office, Cormorant street.

THE REAL TEST OF VALUE

Publishers of magazines and periodicals of a general nature are frequent newspaper advertisers.

They recognize the daily newspaper as the medium to use when they want to make actual sales of their product.

Announcements in the newspapers send people to the stands to buy the publications.

In just the same way the advertising of any national product in the newspapers sends customers to the local retailers to make actual purchases.

Of all forms of advertising none equals the newspaper for making sales.

After all that is the real test of advertising value don't you think?

Held Short Meeting.—A short meeting of the board of trade council was held this morning when several matters were taken up by the members, but were not advanced sufficiently to warrant publication.

Theatre Permit Issued.—A building permit was issued yesterday to W. P. Nichols, proprietor of the Empress theatre, Government street near Yates, for alterations to the theatre at a cost of $5,000. The alterations, which will reduce the fire hazard, will be carried out by H. C. Ferree on behalf of the owner, Mr. Ferree as architect having secured the passage of a resolution by the city council over-ruling the building inspector. The resolution allows mill construction to be used in the theatre, whereas the building by-law would require concrete for the alterations proposed.

Amos Moneybags, millionaire and skinflint, was wont to dress himself in the most remarkable and antiquated clothes. Recently a friend approached him and used his persuasive powers in the hope of inducing the millionaire to dress more in accordance with his station in life. "I am surprised, Amos," he said, "that you should allow yourself to become so shabby." "But I'm not shabby," firmly interposed the millionaire. "Oh, but you are!" returned his friend. "Now your father—he took a real pride in his person. His clothes were always above reproach. Why don't you go to the same tailor?" "I do!" triumphantly exclaimed the miser. "These very clothes that I have on were once my father's!"

AT THE THEATRES

A COMEDY PICTURE.

One of the greatest two-reel comedy picture plays to be shown upon the screen for many months is to be seen at the Majestic theatre to-day and to-morrow. It is entitled "Come Back to Broadway," and it is both original and meritorious. Anita Stewart, as Bessie, a manicurist, falls a victim to her own beauty and joins an opera troup, which closes suddenly in an unsympathetic one-night town stand. A millionaire figures through the action, but he suddenly discovers that he is without ready money and is taken for a "beat" and is not allowed to stop at the hotel. Bessie helps him out and afterward he reciprocates and both go back to Broadway. The laughter that this feature brings from the audiences is great and throughout the greatest interest is shown. Four other reels of select pictures are shown including another of the famous Buster Brown series which is so popular among the children.

LOEW'S VAUDEVILLE.

Marcus Loew's vaudeville will pay its second visit to the Royal Victoria theatre, commencing next Thursday and continuing each day, giving three performances a day the matinee starting at 3, and the evening performances at 7.30 and 9.15. The bill will be of excellent quality and will be headed by Bernard and Harrington, who will present their merry farce "Who is She?" Another unusual act making its first appearance here will be McIntosh and his Musical Maids, a quartette of clever Scotch singers, etc., playing the violin, cornet, piano and Scotch bagpipes.

The other acts will be Nichol's Nelson Troupe, wonders with hoops and diabolos; Davis and Mathews, late stars with Eddy Foy's Show, "Over the River;" Wardell and Hoyt, comedians presenting "The Italian and the Boss," and Fred Hillebrand, "6 foot 2" of comedy and song.

"MILESTONES."

One of the most popular plays ever transported from British soil is "Milestones," the three-act comedy by Arnold Bennett and Edward Knoblauch, which ran for a year in New York City and which is to be the attraction at the Royal Victoria theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 17 and 18. An unusual story is told in the play, one that lasts over three generations and the youth of the first act is the grandfather of the last.

Venerable truths and a whole host of philosophy and moral facts that carry their message effectively yet never descend to the tiresome level of preachment, lurk in the charming picture, or to be more correct, three charming pictures which the distinguished authors have created. Characters, drawn with rare fidelity and acted with grace and distinction by a splendid cast of players, tell of the world's old story of the march of progress against the obstacles of tradition and its resultant prejudice, concealed as it is by a filmy web of the romances of three periods, some happy, others unfulfilled or blighted in their early bloom. The result is a picture combining heart interest, intellectual stimulus, gentle wit and pathos the whole illumined by the brilliant, elusive lines of the authors.

RECEPTION AT PANTAGES.

To-morrow afternoon at Pantages theatre, Frances Clare, "the darling of vaudeville," and the girls aiding her in the headline attraction this week, will hold a reception on the stage of the theatre to all the children in the audience. The affair promises to be a most enjoyable one as the "little friends" of the star are all charming hostesses, and there will be no formality whatever. The efforts of the performers will be directed towards making the children feel quite at home, and the youngsters are promised a thoroughly enjoyable time.

Parents can be quite certain that in bringing their children to the show they will derive nothing but amusement and benefit from it. There is nothing in any of the acts to offend the most sensitive ears, but plenty of good, clean fun and healthy sentiment. "Yesterdays," the excellent vehicle for the talent of Miss Clare, Guy Rawson and their pretty chorus, will please the children immensely, as well as appeal just as naturally to the full-grown adult. The rest of the bill is varied and clever with roller skaters in the latest society dances, the syncopated orchestra of Creoles, the weird singing and dancing of McConnell and Niemeyer, and that rollicking Irish comedian, Arthur Whitelaw. An extra good Keystone comedy is the screen contribution of the week.

EMPRESS THEATRE.

A revelation of what is really possible in the way of musical achievement with that inanimate fabric of wood and metal called a clarionet, is given this week at the Empress by Colonel J. Seymour, who comes heralded as the world's greatest clarionetter. He may or may not be the greatest, but he certainly is a master of the clarionet and afforded what may be justly styled as a real musical treat to the Empress patrons who heard him yesterday with a tone that ranges from a purity of a flute to the deep notes of a bassoon, Colonel Seymour shows the range of that oft abused instrument and also illustrates some of the possibilities of the clever imitations he contributes.

To the Schofield family belong the vocal honors of the bill. The boy of the family has a beautiful tenor which is heard to advantage in one solo, while the ensemble numbers are also pleasing and artistic. A Dutch comedy act, that has plenty of action and some very amusing patter, interspersed with catchy songs, is presented by Glocum, a heavyweight comedian and Miss Raymond, a dainty soubrette.

"Marvelous" Stayton justifies his title by the feats he performs in the juggling and balancing line. Some of his balancing feats have to be seen to be believed and equal if not surpass anything that has been seen on the stage here for many months.

The part of the programme devoted to movies is fully up to the high standard of the vaudeville.

Life never seems so clear and easy as when the heart is beating faster at the sight of some generous, self-risking deed.—George Eliot.

OPENING HELD AT SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE

Many Attend Interesting Event at Completed Building; Those Who Helped.

A long line of motor cars outside the doors of the new Seamen's institute, Superior street, yesterday afternoon, hinted to the mere outsider something of the unusual proceedings within. Although the building practically has been completed for the past month this was only formally acknowledged yesterday afternoon when Hon. W. J. Bowser, acting premier, declared the new premises open.

The ceremony took place in the presence of many of the leading citizens of Victoria, the large hall which forms part of the institute being crowded to capacity with interested witnesses of the proceedings. F. A. McDiarmid, chairman of the men's committee, presided, with him on the platform being Mrs. Thomson, president of the Ladies' Guild; Mrs. Troup, vice-president, and first president of the Guild; Mrs. Pemberton, who has shown a generous interest in the work since its inception; Hon. W. J. Bowser, the Bishop of Columbia, Rev. J. B. Warnicker, Rev. Dr. C. T. Scott, and Rev. Jos. McCoy.

The stage, which is quite a feature of the new hall, was attractively decorated with palms and a trellis of ... along the footlights, while the hall itself was gay with flags and naval pennants strung in nautical style across the room.

Dedicatory prayers and service were conducted by the bishop, after which the chairman made a brief statement of the financial condition of the institute. The building, which had cost $14,000, would be able to start practically free of incumbrance through the $2,000 given under the Lord Strathcona grant. The old institute had registered, up to the close of the year ending March 31, 235 seamen in the visitors' book; the new institute in three weeks had registered 46 sailors, and had found posts for a dozen men out of employment. Already it had cared for a convalescent boy from the hospital, and another was coming in to the institute in the course of the week. The possibilities of such an institute in a seaport were immeasurable.

Hon. W. J. Bowser, speaking in the absence of Sir Richard McBride, conveyed the heartiest congratulations to the men's committee and to the Ladies' Guild on their accomplishment in setting so splendid a work on so sound a basis as the new institute. Through the energy of these organizations and with the generous support given by the public, the government had not had to give so much assistance as it anticipated. It was just six years since Mrs. Troup had inaugurated the work which had found concrete results in the present building, and it was chiefly owing to the Ladies' Guild that the work had been carried to a successful issue in a time of such financial depression as the present. If it were not for the women he did not imagine that the institute would be in its splendid position to-day. The institute meant much in upholding the splendid traditions of the British navy. After the Napoleonic wars there had been a great impetus given to the trade of Britain; after the present war it might be anticipated that there would be another such impetus, and the government in Canada might find the necessity of giving greater protection to the Pacific coast than hitherto by the laying down of warships. If this were done there would be a great many more sailors to look after in the port, and it would be a splendid thing for the men coming off a voyage to find such a comfortable home, with its many advantages, awaiting them. On behalf of the government he wished to express his unqualified appreciation, and he could assure them that, having seen the institute and the calibre of the workers, they could always count on his warm personal support. It gave him great pleasure to declare the new building open.

After the presentation of a bouquet of flowers by Mrs. Murray Thain, who made the gift on behalf of the Ladies' Guild, Rev. J. B. Warnicker moved a vote of thanks to the attorney-general. The Seamen's Institute, in a port like Victoria, was a very important factor in the social, normal and religious life of the community. Rev. Joseph McCoy seconded the motion with a brief allusion to the debt of gratitude which the nation owed those men who "went down to the sea in ships," and the help which should be given in guarding these against danger and temptation when they came ashore.

The resolution was carried.

A feature of the concluding part of the proceedings was the presentation to the chairman, on behalf of the Guild, of a portrait of Mrs. Troup, first president of the Guild, and "the best friend the institute ever had."

A delightful programme of music was provided at the close of the opening ceremony, those taking part being Mrs. Macdonald Fahey, who sang in her most attractive manner, "I Am Weary of the Garden," and the "Blackbird Song;" Mrs. R. Baird, a pleasing contralto, who gave a chansonette, "La Coeur de Mimi" and "Rose in the Bud;" and Mrs. J. R. Green, who exhibited her talents as a violinist in a Mazurka by Musin. Harty Morden gave a splendid rendering of "Blow, Blow, Thou Wintry Wind," and the entertainment concluded with the National Anthem.

The visitors after the programme repaired to the comfortable lounge, where delicious afternoon tea was served, and many also took the opportunity to view the other rooms of the institute. The office, particularly, which has been completely furnished by Miss Elinor Dunsmuir, excited pleased comment, and among the other generous donors to the furnishings and building fund were Mrs. Pemberton, who gave a piano; daughters of Mrs. Pemberton, portrait of Mrs. Pemberton; J. G. Brown and F. F. Taylor, flags.

The following were among those who generously contributed to the building fund since May, 1914: Mrs. Thomson, W. H. Rowlands, Norman Lee, (per Mrs. Appleby), Mrs. Raymond, Eugene Lineham, Mrs. Louis York, Mrs. W. H. Logan, E. E. Blackwood, Richard Hall, J. S. H. Matson, D. Doig, W. & J. Wilson, "Ireland and Germany," Swinerton & Musgrave, J. H. Jones, Norman Lee, Green & Burdick Bros., Ltd; Mrs. Troup (excursion to Bellingham and donation on ship); Mrs. P. Hibben, His Honor Lieut.-Governor Paterson, F. S. Barnard, J. A. Man, J. Arbuthnot, Chas. Todd, W. J. Burns, Lee Mong Kow. Proceeds of baseball game also helped.

Those who contributed to the furnishing fund were: Mrs. Thomson, Miss Macdonald, Mrs. Rowlands, Mrs. Mary Bannerman, Victoria Amateur Dramatic club, Mrs. Pethick, F. R. Harrison, Mrs. Audain, Mrs. Arbuthnot, Mrs. Savage, Mrs. Hermann Robertson, a friend, Lady Douglas Chapter, I. O. D. E.; Mrs. Belson, Mrs. Burdick, Mrs. Allan Kirk, Weiler Bros., Ltd.; Mrs. David Ker, Mrs. Neroutsos, Mrs. Pethick, Mrs. Blackwood, Mrs. Charles Todd, Captain Shatforth, of the S.S. A SIMPLE WAY TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Prevent Falling Hair and End Itching Scalp

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove randruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enought to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you value your hair, you should get rid of dandruff at once, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it.

CONCERT DELIGHTED

Artists Encored at Entertainment Given Last Evening Under Auspices of Ladies' Musical Club.

Bad weather and counter attractions accounted for a rather disappointing audience at the Alexandra hall last evening on the occasion of the excellent concert given under the auspices of the Ladies' Musical club, but full appreciation was given by those present to the performers of the evening. Among these were Miss Phyllis Clayton, a pianiste, who, if memory serves aright, has not been heard previously in Victoria. It is hoped by those who had the pleasure of listening to her last evening that she will have a more favorable opportunity for displaying her talent. The same may be said of Mrs. R. B. Bennett, who possesses a charming voice, and should be heard by club members on some future occasion. W. G. Quirk, who has a beautiful vibrant bass, filled the hall with his voice, and Mrs. Warum made another of her ever-welcome appearances with her violin. Encores were given all the performers.

The next concert by the society, on December 3, will be made up entirely of Christmas carols and other appropriate Christmas music. The double quartette, which made its debut at the first concert under the club auspices about a fortnight ago, will give several selections at this entertainment. The ladies have decided to devote fifty per cent. of the proceeds of their next and the two succeeding entertainments to the furtherance of the scheme for bringing out Belgian orphans to this country, particulars in connection with which were advanced recently by Mrs. H. E. Young at a meeting of the local council of women.

CONCERT AT ROYAL OAK

Amateur Dramatic Society and Others Assist at Patriotic Entertainment in Aid of Church.

The patriotic concert given at Royal Oak on Tuesday evening in aid of the rectory fund of St. Michael's church, scored an unusual measure of success. The hall was bright with bunting and flags caught up with sprays of Oregon grape and chrysanthemums. With the exception of one solo: "O Perfect Day," delightfully rendered by Mrs. Thompson, the entire programme was given by the Victoria Amateur Dramatic Society. "Mrs. Hamitzer's Patriotic Play," written for the society, is a succession of all the late songs and catchy choruses strung together in a clever continuity which redeems them from being absolutely separate entities. Some very pretty dances were also introduced. Mrs. McConnan won her audience with some charming songs, and Miss Phyllis Davis was especially irresistible in "I'm the Nurse."

At the close of the programme a warm vote of thanks to the Victoria Amateur Dramatic society was proposed by the rector, Mr. Hadlow, who made especial reference to the assistance given by A. D. B. Scott, Mr. Hincks, Robert McKenzie and Robert Wharton, who took an active part in the proceedings. The performers were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Darnell, of "The Croft," at the Royal Oak hotel, and as the result of the exceptionally enjoyable entertainment the rectory fund has appreciably benefited.

TWELVE MONTHS OR A FINE OF FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

This was the verdict meted out this morning to a poorly dressed individual, but to everybody's surprise and satisfaction he pulled a roll of bills from his pocket and paid the fine. He then told the judge that if he had fined him one thousand dollars, he could have paid it and a whole lot more besides. The judge instantly remarked, that it would be a good thing, seeing that he had so much money, if he would go down to Mackinnon's million dollar sale and purchase a good suit and overcoat, as they were selling all their high grade stock of overcoats at half-price and all suits at fifteen dollars. He took the tip and now walks the streets in gentleman's clothes. Don't fail to purchase yours to-morrow.

SPORTING NEWS

RUGBY UNION WILL MEET HERE

INTER-CITY MATCH TO-MORROW

Victoria Fifteen to Play Vancouver at Oak Bay; California Authority Boosts Old Country Game

That Vancouver will not press their claim for affiliation with the British Columbia Rugby Union is the statement made by one of the Terminal City officials to the mainland press. This means that to-morrow morning's meeting of the B. C. R. U. will not put up the McKechnie trophy for the inter-city Rugby matches which open to-morrow at Oak Bay. The fact that the Vancouver Rugby Union is still in existence makes it impossible for the union to admit the new league, as the old Vancouver union will again operate next season.

Victoria Rugby enthusiasts look for a decisive win over the Terminal City fifteen at Oak Bay to-morrow afternoon. The local "rep" team has practised faithfully this week and they have an exceptionally well-balanced club. The line composes youth and speed, while the three-quarter division is fully as good as that of last year. A. Hill will referee and the teams will line up as follows:

Victoria: Fullback, Gaillher, 88th; three-quarters, Meredith, Willows; Vincent, Bays; Grant, Bays, and Marton 88th; halves, Thomas and Heidra, Welsh; forwards, MacLachlan, Bays; Gillespie, Willows; Carstairs, 88th; Patterson, 88th; Heinekey, Willows; B. Scott, Willows; F. Sweeney, Bays, and H. Ross, Bays. Reserves, fullback, K. MacDonald, Bays; three-quarters, W. Newcombe, Bays; halves, Chalk, Welsh; Sanson, Bays.

Vancouver: Fullback, Smith, Y. M. C. A.; three-quarters, Orme, Y. M. C. A.; Macken, 101st Cadets; DesBrisay, McGill; McGulgan, Rowing club; halfbacks, Priest, Y. M. C. A.; Honeyman, McGill; five-eights, F. Lord, 101st Cadets; forwards, Rogers, McGill; Helme, McGill; Fraser, McGill; Godfrey, Y. M. C. A.; Richardson, Y. M. C. A.; Brown, Y. M. C. A.; Decker, Rowing club. Reserves, McGowan, McGill; McWhinney, Rowing club; Pringle, Y. M. C. A.; Marshall, Rowing club.

Stanford University, Cal., Nov. 13.—Walter Camp, Yale football coach, and one time coach at Stanford, through the medium of an anti-Rugby, pro-American football article in a Stanford magazine, has caused Chancellor David Starr Jordan to lay aside his peace toga and take up arms in a controversy over the merits of the two games. Camp asserts that the two games have reached a point of amalgamation. Chancellor Jordan, who was largely responsible for the introduction of Rugby on the Pacific coast, said:

"When the American game becomes one of passing and kicking rather than of pushing and mass playing I shall be willing to favor it. All the games I have seen in the east have made me tired. They are battlesgames and without interest to the neutral spectator."

EMPIRES WITHDRAW FROM SECOND DIVISION

Sporting Editor: "Re Empire's and City replay game." Owing to what we consider a most unsatisfactory decision of the league, in ordering this replay, we have withdrawn from the association. The protested game was won by the Empires with a score of 2 to 0 according to the decision of the referee (Mr. Oakewell given on the field. One goal however, the City protested and one only. Thus with the disputed goal disallowed, the Empires are left with a clear cut win of 1 to 0. The goal in dispute was not appealed for by the Empires; it was the voluntary decision of referee Oakewell, who alone is responsible and whose decision on the field should be final. The league appears to hold views of the referees' decisions given on the field. After allowing him over a week to read up the rules and consult the experts, they decide to allow him to take a free kick at those decisions in their league meetings, thus reducing decisions given on the field to a sham, and leaving results of matches in doubt for a week or more after they have been played.

The Empires feel that this method of procedure brings the game down to a farce, and trust that the association will set about to crush, not foster, that growing disposition of "when you don't win, protest." The Empires have entered in four leagues and I believe have been found to be a good sporting team, the boys being out for the love of the game and that only. Consequently they regret that circumstances should have arisen that compel their withdrawal from the association.

VANCOUVER AFTER WINNIPEG YOUTH

Coast League Sells Lalonde to Canadiens; Eastern Stars on Holdout List

Winnipeg, Nov. 13.—Del Irvine, the star cover point player of the local Monarch team, received a telegram from Frank Patrick yesterday asking him if he would go west and play for Vancouver this winter. In a message, Patrick stated that he would not play hockey this season and therefore the Vancouver club needed a defence man to take his place. He was satisfied that he, Del Irvine, could fill the vacancy. Del however is not very jubilant over the offer to go west and stated that although the proposition offered was rather tempting, he did not know just what he would do.

A dispatch from Montreal says that George Kennedy, manager of the Canadiens A. C., is authority for the statement that "Newsy" Lalonde will remain with the Canadiens and Pitre will go to the Pacific Coast League, through an arrangement with the Patricks. Frank Patrick admits different, however, and says neither will be out this way. He sold Lalonde and Pitre belongs to Kennedy.

Carl Kendall, the former New Edinburgh boy, who went from the Pacific Coast league to the Wanderers, is a holdout. He received notice from President Sam Lichtenhein that salaries were being reduced. Kendall will not sign up at the figure already stipulated. Goaler Sammy Herbert who played with the Ontarios, refuses to agree to the terms submitted by Manager Jimmy Murphy and has returned his contract minus a signature.

Fred Lake, the Ontario defence man, is traveling for a sporting goods firm and will not sign unless the Ontarios increase their offer. Tommy Smith received contracts from the Quebec and Ontario teams and his status will not be settled until the next meeting of the National association directors. Tommy Westwick expects to return to Quebec though he has not yet come to terms with Manager Mike Quinn. Hap Murphy, Archie Atkinson and other Maritime league stars have not received contracts yet and it is understood that the easterners will not reorganize.

Vancouver Nov. 13.—Bernie Morris, Victorias' latest recruit, arrived here to-day from Moose Jaw and will join the Senators to-morrow.

George Kennedy denies that there is any chance of his sturdy point player, Ernie Dubeau, retiring from hockey this winter, an intention which Dubeau is said to have expressed to Playing Manager Jimmy Gardner in a letter from Ogdensburg, N. Y., where he is now employed.

The Victoria club has signed C. A. Fraser, of Winnipeg, who comes with a good reputation.

BILLIARD MEETING.

A meeting of the Victoria Billiard league will be held early next week. Bob Cliburn, of Vancouver, who was in the city yesterday, states that any team can compete for the Burroughes and Watts trophy.

Phoenix Stout, $1.50 per doz. qts.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

What Are Terms of Baseball Peace?

A story from Chicago to the effect that the sale of the Chicago Cubs to Charles Weeghman is one of the steps towards baseball peace is a little different from that which was sent out a few weeks ago. The Federals will want to protect every man who put a dollar into their enterprise and it will be a decidedly tame ending to Johnnie's plucky fight if his confreres decide to mix in with organized baseball, as a Class A A league. The Federals, with the players they have signed up for next year, are a comparatively strong organization. Too strong by far are they for the International and American Association leagues, and they may be given a high rating. Probably the Federals will insist upon the exclusion of the draft process from their league, and if this is granted, it will give them the same standing as the National and American leagues. That Weegham sale does not sound good, especially in view of the fact that Weegham is one of the greatest fighters against anything short of major league rating.

In the Brotherhood League.

If the hold-out hockey players form a league this winter the first row seat holders will get a line of conversation like this:—

1st team's coverpoint:—"What's the house?"

Right wing's 2nd team:—"Haven't heard yet, but those six bit seats are all filled up."

C. P.:—We split seven fifty in Toronto last Saturday and would have had an even thou, only the papers are ridin' up there."

R. W.:—"That fresh guy at centre thinks we are running this team to keep him supplied with sticks. He busted two last week. Jimmy's going to clap a ten buck fine on him if he busts another."

C. P.:—"Whaddya know about that stew wantin' twenty bucks to come from Toronto and referee this game. Why the fare's only fourteen somethin. Those guys want all the coin."

R. W.:—"Billy, you take the count when Ernie comes down and I'll duck up to the box office and see what our piece is."

C. P.:—"Tell 'em to carry me off and I'll come up with you."

R. W.:—"What's the score now?"

C. P.:—"Don't know, but that timer's Ingersol has run down. Must have been playin' half an hour already this period."

Racing Plant as Stock Yard.

The first occasion on record in which a Canadian racing plant has been utilized for military purposes occurred when the plant of the Dorval Jockey club was taken over by the authorities for the purpose of caring for the shipment of fifteen hundred horses—Saskatchewan's gift to the imperial government.

When racing for the season closed at Dorval in September last, the plant was closed down for the winter. Windows were barred up, stabling closed and every preparation made against the ravages of the winter season. But when word came from the authorities that accommodation was needed for a big shipment of horses from the west, President J. T. R. Laurendeau immediately placed the Dorval plant at their disposal.

Waivers have been asked on Plank, Bender, Coombs and von Kluck.

THIS DOG PLAYED MEAN TRICK ON BOB.

Bob Simpson, popular manager of the North Ward baseball team, may have considerable knowledge of the American pastime, but as a tracker he lacks experience. Ruby Robert last week end went out to bag some big game. He had hardly traveled more than 200 yards in the woods when he came across foot-prints in the soggy ground, like those of a panther. Steadily he trailed the tracks, and must have tramped three miles through the thicket; all the time having his rifle ready for action. He came to an opening and found to his surprise that he had been trailing a big St. Bernard dog, which was lying on the porch of a farm house about 100 yards from the bush. Bob was stung, and returned home through the wet bush empty-handed, claiming he will never again invade the Saanich district for game.

HOPPE'S BIG LEAD.

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 13.—Hoppe defeated Inman in a block of 1,000 points at 18.2 balk line billiards yesterday, running out the required total while his opponent was compiling 161. In the afternoon Hoppe won by 500 to 62, making a run of 123, while in the evening he scored 500 to his opponent's 99, making high runs of 169 and 123. Inman's best effort during the day was 41, made during the afternoon session. To-day they meet at English billiards, 1,500 points, and Inman to win must overcome the American's lead of 839 points.

THISTLES EXPECT TO BEAT JACKSONS

Senior Matches to Be Played at Beacon Hill; Games Will Start Early

Jacksons and Thistles will clash at Beacon Hill to-morrow afternoon in the resumption of the Victoria Football association schedule, while the Wests and Bays are also playing at Beacon Hill, the latter clubs occupying the upper pitch. The clubs have been playing in the Peden cup ties and while the Wests now lead in the V. F. A. series, the strengthened Thistles expect to pull up with the green and white in to-morrow's game. A win for the Bays would give the three leading clubs an equal chance, while should Thistles lose to the Jacksons, they will drop to third place in the fight for the city championship. To-morrow's complete schedule is as follows:

ANNUAL MEETING.

It was announced this morning that the annual meeting of the Victoria Lawn Bowling club will be held November 18 at the Camosun club.

GOLFERS START IN TITLE COMPETITION

Play was started this morning for the Bostock cup, representing the championship of British Columbia. Champion Macan is again the favorite, and Victoria is almost sure to retain this honor. There are very few entries this year, partly because of the departure of some of the best Mainland golfers for the front, but the interest in the outcome of this competition is very keen. H. Horton and J. W. Morris drove off the first tee this morning in the first eighteen-hole match, while P. Criddle and C. S. Birch also started early. The remainder of the players will start this afternoon, the finals being played to-morrow and on Sunday.

The complete draw is as follows:

A. T. Goward vs. S. G. Wheatley.
T. B. Tye vs. J. A. Rithet.
H. Wilson vs. A. N. Other.
A. V. Macan vs. A. Coles.
H. Horton vs. J. W. Morris.
W. H. Ricardo vs. Winner of Horton vs. Morris.

COAST LEAGUE SALE.

Los Angeles, Nov. 12.—Henry Berry and Thomas Stephens, majority owners of the Los Angeles Baseball club, along with Clarence Berry, prospective buyers of the San Francisco Seals, expect to sell their interest in the Angels within a few days. Thomas Darmody, vice-president of the club and a minority stockholder, will secure control with the backing of two men whose names Darmody withholds.

The Berrys and Stephens have a thirty-day option on the San Francisco club, which they say they will exercise upon the completion of the deal here.

In the meantime the Berrys and Stephens are negotiating a long-time lease on Recreation park in San Francisco.

ANNUAL BANQUET OF LAWN BOWLERS

Beacon Hill Park Club Winds Up Very Successful Season; List of Prize Winners

Victoria's lawn bowlers wound up the 1914 season in splendid style at the Camuson club last evening, when the members gathered at the festive board to honor the winners of the various trophies presented during the past summer. President Bryce was in the chair and he was assisted by Vice-President Langley. Toasts to the King, Victoria City, the Game and the Green, Kindred Sports and the Novices brought forth much enthusiasm, Mayor Stewart, Rev. J. B. Warnicker, Robt. Dowswell, J. A. Turner, A. R. Langley, W. Oliphant, Geo. Nicholson, J. Alexander and W. Chambers being prominent in the replies to these toasts. Songs by Jesse Evans and W. Melville completed the programme.

President Bryce spoke a few words on the success of the Victoria in defending the Barnard cup against Vancouver, and announced that the annual meeting of the club will be held next Thursday evening at the Camuson club. A complete list of the season's prize winners is as follows: "O. O." cup—1, G. Roberts; 2, W. Woods Shortt, Hill & Dunlan cup—1, Robert Dunn, sr.; 2, A. R. Langley. Clayton cup—1, Peter Turner; 2, C. Marshall. McKenzie cup—1, J. Yates and T. M. Sturgess; 2, G. Mowatt and Rev. J. B. Warnicker. Stewart cup, for novices—1, J. Alexander; 2, W. Chambers. Seven Ends competition—1, G. M. "Then the Victrola is such a splendid he'p to the children's education. Through it's teaching, they have become familiar with the best works of all the great composers, as interpreted by the best singers and musicians. "Besides, I have a really selfish reason for liking it. Some of the ladies of my aquaintance used to delight in inviting me to teas and receptions where they played their fine Victor Records, but now that we have a Victrola, I can have just as good music as theirs."

MOTORIST'S DARING DASH.

A thrilling story of a motorist's dash through German fire is referred to by a British staff-lieutenant, who writes home: "I think the bravest deed of all was done by one of our motor corps, a chap over here with his car like myself. He was told off to accompany three aeroplanes which were to make a raid on the German lines, and if possible they were to destroy the Zeppelins which the Germans were using from their base. He got as close as he could to the German lines, and then lay in wait all day for the return of the airmen. News was received at headquarters that the planes had been brought down, and an armored car was sent out to try to find them and to send the other car back if they could find it. However, the lieutenant got to hear from the fleeing Belgian soldiers that an aeroplane had dropped, and followed their direction right through the German fire and rescued all three airmen and one of the observers. The other two stayed behind to wreck the engines of the planes so that they should be of no use to the enemy. I do not know how they fared, but we have since been told that they got back safely."

Chicago has started a golf club, limited to 150 members, with £45,000 in the treasury, derived from entrance fees, fixed at £300 each. Within twenty minutes after the plan establishing the most expensive golf club in America had been discussed, the £45,000 was paid.

THRILLS OF WAR TOLD BY MAN WITH JOFFRE

Big Shell Came Singing; Then Bang of Germans' "Good Morning"

London, Nov. 12.—A British officer on the staff of General Joffre writes home at follows:

I have been here for over a week, during the whole of which a fierce battle has been raging and still continues. The Germans had evidently fortified their present position very strongly in case they were obliged to retreat after their dash on Paris. This, of course, they had to do after their defeat a fortnight ago. The British and French armies pursued them closely, taking numbers of prisoners, guns, ammunition, etc., but when we got to this place we found the Germans so strongly entrenched in the position they had prudently fortified against such an eventuality that it has so far proved impossible to dislodge them. There have been fierce attacks and counter-attacks all the time, and the losses on both sides have been enormous. Most of the fighting, however, has been in the nature of a violent artillery duel. The pandemonium has been indescribable; indeed, as I write the guns are still thundering all round. The effect of the big shells is simply tremendous. Wherever they fall great clouds of earth and rock are blown up, and if they happen to fall at all near the shock is terrific. I was with the French general and his staff the other day in a little town about three kilometres behind our firing line when the Germans evidently got to know that the French staff was there, and began to shell the place with their big guns from a distance of about nine kilometres. Since then they have bombarded this poor little town at odd moments of the day and night, though the French Staff left it after a few hours.

I was there the day before yesterday, and the whole place was quite calm, though full of reserve troops, transport, etc., when suddenly one heard the familiar singing noise of a big shell coming. Everyone craned their necks and some ran for shelter, while the singing came nearer and nearer, and then with the most terrific bang the shell landed, followed a few seconds later by a second and third. A singing and bang, one more in the same place, and the third a little further off. Then all was quiet again. It was evidently a case of "Good morning" from our friendly Germans. These big shells are very unlikely to do you much harm at a distance of more than 15 yards, but up to that they smash everything to bits. The shrapnel is far worse. Apparently the German infantry are very poor, and the cavalry not much better, but their generals are evidently very good and their organization extraordinarily perfect. As to their artillery, I can vouch for its excellence after watching it closely for nearly a week. Whenever the French infantry advance out of their shelters to charge, their whole front is at once regularly covered with shrapnel and the unfortunate men are knuocked over like rabbits. They are very brave, and advance time after time to the charge through an appalling fire, but so far it has been of no avail. No one could live through the fire that is concentrated on them the moment they leave their shelter. I have seen some wonderful acts of bravery the last few days. The officers are splendid; they advance about 20 yards ahead of their men as calmly as though on parade, but so far I have not seen one of them get more than 50 yards without being knocked over. The French artillery is also splendid—much better than the Germans in a way—but they cannot tell exactly where the Germans are, and the latter are so strongly entrenched that gun-fire cannot make much impression on them. However, of course they cover the infantry to a certain extent; otherwise the latter would all be wiped out pretty quick. Still the Germans must have lost pretty heavily, in spite of their strong trenches, as the fire of the French guns have been incessant, and whatever they try to hit they do. At the same time it can only be largely guesswork to know where to aim. I was with a French battery for about five hours the other day and was much impressed by their very rapid firing and wonderful coolness. They laughed at the German shells and played cards during the lulls in the fight.

The day before yesterday a French officer came and sat with me and said he had just been shooting some partridges for his mess. He offered to lend me his gun and a few cartridges, and I soon gathered in enough for our mess. It was a curious experience to be out shooting partridges during this violent battle. The sound of my shots was almost imperceptible in the general din.

LIKE A TRUE BRITON.

The parents of Lieutenant George Prescott Blackall Simonds, of the South Wales Borderers, who was killed in action at Vendresse, have received letters from the front bearing testimony to the gallantry displayed by their son. The lieutenant's servant, who was with him when he was killed, in the course of a note, states, "your son died like a hero." Major W. L. Lawrence, of the South Wales Borderers, states: "It appears to have been a very severe fight at close quarters with the enemy in a quarry. Lieutenant Simonds led his company in the attack, and was the first to enter the quarry. The result of the fight was very successful, as though the Germans far outnumbered us they were driven out of the quarry and forced to retire. The victory, however, was won at the sacrifice of many valuable lives." Colonel Leach in his letter says: "Lieutenant Simonds' company was heavily engaged when he was killed. If it is any consolation, the behaviour of the regiment was made the subject of congratulations by the commander-in-chief."

DUCHESS WRITES ON SIX WEEKS OF WAR

Titled Woman Relates Her Experiences With Ambulance Corps in Belgium

London, Nov. 13.—"Six Weeks of the War" is the title of a little book written by the Duchess of Sutherland, which (says a reviewer in the Daily News) gives a lively and human picture of the early weeks of the war in Belgium and northern France, where the author's adventures with her ambulance corps took her. She was present during the bombardment of Namur, and the following is her description of the Germans' entry into that town:

Now the German troops are fairly marching in. I hear them singing as they march. They sing wonderfully—in parts as if well trained for this singing. It seems almost cowardly to write this, but for a few minutes there was relief to see them coming and to feel that this awful firing would soon cease. On they march. Fine, well set up men with grey uniforms. They have stopped shooting now. I see them streaming into the market-place. A lot of stampeding artillery horses gallop by with Belgian guns. On one of the limbers still lay all that was left of a man. It is too terrible. What can these brave little people do against this mighty force. Some of the Germans have fallen out and are talking to the people in the streets. They are so utterly relieved at the cessation of the bombardment that in their fear they are actually welcoming the Germans. I saw some woman press forward and wave their handkerchiefs.

There is a strange picture of life under the Germans which occurs in the narrative of the approach to Maubeuge.

The dreariest part of the day was meeting the poor people on the roads. They were going back with small bundles on their backs to their homes. "Ma maison est ell brulee, madame?" they would ask, and what could one reply as they passed on?

The Germans have a habit when they have conquered a place, burnt it partly and terrified it wholly, of plastering it with proclamations and surrounding it with guards, and then saying, or rather coaxing, "Now go and be happy, my children. All is well. You have my permission, under certain stringent conditions, of course, to fish in the rivers." I used to see frightened-looking individuals stealing forth to the banks of the Sombre or the Meuse, as the case might be, with fishing rods before I left Namur—strong is the ruling passion even in war.

The duchess had many opportunities of seeing German soldiers of all sorts and conditions, and her opinion on the army of the Germans is interesting:

The first line of the German army is impressive—brave, I should say, and fierce, and conveyed all the moral effect to Belgium that the Germans intended. After the first line the physique of the men is inferior. They seem to have no heart for the war, and would always be coming up to me to speak of their wives, their homes and their work. They respected the Red Cross in those early days. They said they would far rather work than fight, but that as Germany was winning so easily the war would not take long. They did not know why they were fighting, and brought forward most ridiculous reasons.

Why France Should Be Proud of Her Army

By Special Correspondent of Scientific American

The day after the victory of the Marne Gen. Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French army, wrote this sentence, which, though concise, is very full of military meaning: "The government of the republic may well be proud of the army that it created."

During the two months that Germany has been throwing forward the great weight of her formidable masses, which to-day we have beaten back, there has hardly been a day when I was not closely associated with one or more of the different classes of soldiers composing the French army. I have seen them on duty; I have heard their conversations: I have slept on the hard ground with them; I have shared their bread, and what I would like to tell the world to-day in these few notes which I have jotted down at haphazard is the true worth, both physical and moral, of the French soldier.

What distinguishes him above all else is his full realization of the part he has to act. The German is a good soldier as far as discipline is concerned, for this has been deeply instilled into him; but in a certain way it is a passive kind of a discipline—he lacks, in consequence, individual initiative. Nothing is expected of him but obedience. We have a proof of this every moment. For instance, in the encounters with the patrol, if the German officer happens to be killed, the men will, when under his command, had fought courageously, surrender immediately. This is not a lack of courage on their part; but left to themselves they become immediately demoralized and do not know what to do.

It is entirely different with the French. Before everything else, each soldier feels himself a free citizen who has voluntarily taken arms for the defense of those ideas of justice and liberty which he has inherited from his ancestors. For these reasons he gives to his country the full measure of his intelligence and his courage. From this point of view the French army is very truly a "nations in arms."

Nothing is more picturesque, more typical than a French cantonment. Here all social differences have entirely disappeared. There are no rich, no poor, no peasants and no society men. Here absolute equality reigns. One soul animates them all—the soul of the soldier. A little while ago some one remarked to me that the German is a soldier by education, but the Frenchman is a soldier by nature. That is perfectly true. I met the other day, in a cantonment near Chalons, a young professor of the Sorbonne, a very erudite lecturer, elegant and popular in Parisian society, now a simple soldier of the second class, who had just finished carrying water for the troops. Here I saw this young sayant, who was always so elegant in his appearance and manner, his cap over his ear, singing at the top of his lungs with his comrades a song that would make a brigadier blush.

A few days in the field had transformed him, or rather had been sufficient to awaken in him the military instinct which slumbers in the depths of the heart of every Frenchman, even the most cultivated and peace-loving. I have seen also some poets who had broken with poetry, some diplomats, some inventors, some priests, some actors, all animated with the same high spirit, all having forgotten their past positions to become exclusively soldiers, and handling guns, pick-axes and the pots and pans of the army kitchen as if they had never done anything else. This fraternity, this comradeship, does not exist only between equals. This fact immediately strikes everyone who comes into the French lines. The subordinates accept their superior willingly, because there is no social hierarchy; there is only a hierarchy of competence. From this it is easily understood how authority can be reconciled with the most cordial comradeship; all are friends without allowing discipline to suffer in the least. We know that this is not the case in the German army. The German officer belongs to a superior caste, which in no circumstances whatever can mingle with the common soldiers. With us a lieutenant or a captain is perfectly willing to sleep on the straw by the side of his men, and he will not refuse to drink a few swallows of wine or coffee from the gourd of a simple trooper. On the other hand, a Prussian lieutenant considers himself dishonored by the mere touch of one of the men under his command, whom he often treats as if he were a valet devoid of dignity, and indeed he often gives him a kick or a slap.

I saw the other day in a railroad station a German captain, who was a prisoner, demanding some water from the French sergeant in charge of him. The latter handed him his cup, which he had previously rinsed with the greatest care. The officer threw away the water in disgust. Such behavior greatly concerned this good sergeant, who thought he had done the proper thing. But a French general who was there had seen the occurrence. He approached the sergeant, and slapping him on the shoulder, "It is very warm," he said. "I should like to have a drink." Meanwhile he looked fixedly at the Bavarian officer, who reddened as the general slowly emptied the tin cup. I call attention to this trait, because I was one of the few witnesses, and because it is characteristic of the very different ways in which the officers of the two armies treat their men. Moreover, as a general rule, such haughty manners is of no avail in the presence of the French trooper. Their proud behavior, their arrogant attitude, and their contemptuous words miss their aim.

A few days ago, after an engagement with a German patrol a zouave captured a young German lieutenant wearing a monocle. As he started back toward the French lines the officer, thinking that the soldier was walking too close to him, and did not keep a respectful distance, moved away with no attempt to disguise his repugnance. But the zouave was so little intimidated that he said: "Too bad for mademoiselle; wait a minute." Then he made him carry his knapsack and all his equipment, crowning his head with his porringer (gamelle). It was a somewhat crude joke, for which the zouave was reprimanded; but this proves at least how little the German officer knows regarding the mentality of the French soldier.

"We have just accomplished a colossal sport. All world's records have been smashed, and notably that of the 200 meters, in plowed-up fields, with knapsack on the back. I believe that Andre (Andre is the athletic champion of 1914) could not have done better. It is after having accomplished this remarkable performance that I received in my left arm an impertinent bullet. We were charging at full speed, regardless of the shells which were whistling their funny little tunes around our heads, and we would have succeeded if it had not been for those devils of Bavarians who were keeping their ground with the energy of desperation. I already held one at the point of my bayonet when a sudden blow made me lose hold of my gun. Carried away by the impetus I had time, before I fell, to deliver a formidable 'direct from the right' upon the corner of the jaw of a tall imbecile who seemed to be laughing at me. Then I kind of lost the notion of things.

"I came to in the arms of a giant, a fellow of the chorister section of the opera, who had picked me up and carried me in the ambulance, while he was howling in a formidable voice: "Arrachons Guillaume a ses fers' (let us tear William from his chains). As you are a musician you might know that this is from the opera of 'William Tell.' We have here a basso who used to sing in Lyons; he spends all the morning in taking care of our poniards—pardon, I mean our bayonets. He is all right, but his voice is enough out of pitch to put in flight a whole regiment of the Parisian guards. Amen. You see that my spirits are good. I desire only one thing, and it is to get well as soon as possible to begin again fighting the enemy."

The cavalryman loves his horse as much as the artilleryman loves his cannon. In the battle of Epernay a battery of 75 was suddenly surrounded by a German division. After a desperate resistance our chief judged it necessary to call his men back. The artillerymen carried away with them the breech (culasse) of their cannons, which later on they had to abandon with cries of rage, for all the horses had been killed. They wanted a revenge and they did not have to wait very long to get it. That very evening, during a charge with the bayonet, we saw the four pieces of 75 which had been put together in a farm under cover of a barn, and were guarded by a dozen or so of German soldiers. We did not lose time in deciding what to do. Fifteen artillerymen swore that they would take their cannons back. When night came these men crawled unseen through the intrenchment of the enemy, and reached the spot where the Germans had placed our pieces. Two of the artillerymen sprang on the sentries in charge of watching the farm; taken by surprise, according to our plan, they were killed, without having time to utter a cry. At midnight the fifteen men returned to camp with our precious 75.

The French aviators do not seek publicity, they do not try to attract upon themselves the attention of the civilians by such inglorious feats as to throw bombs on open towns and kill the women and children.

However, the avion is the king of the modern battles. It is with its invaluable help that we have been able to win all our victories. Of course at the beginning we were somewhat surprised—Germany had organized her aerial fleet in such a marvelous and quiet way. The aviators were more numerous than we had supposed. On our side we utilized, without delay, our army of the air, and in a short while it rendered exceptional services to our etat major. It has played a decisive part in the battle of the Marne, and every day we find it to be an invaluable auxiliary, an indispensible help to the march of our armies. Every day we witness some magnificent and thrilling feats upon the part of the aviators. For instance, the sangfroit of this lieutenant whose motor stopped working when he was just reaching the camp of the enemy. He would not fall to his death without having accomplished his mission, and putting his machine to volplane he threw his projectile with perfect accuracy. There is nothing in ancient history which surpasses or even equals such courage. Imagine the cold heroism of this man, sitting up there in the clouds, almost immobile in his darting machine. And this man is able to tell himself quietly: "If I see an avion enemy I dash straight upon it." His hand was as steady as his heart and his eyes clear, his only care was to make his voluntary death bring the maximum of service to his country.

The hatred which exists between the two fighting armies is ferocious. I cannot keep from my memory the horrible picture which I saw one evening in a village. After having repulsed the enemy we entered one of the abandoned houses. In a narrow corridor I saw two soldiers; one French and the other German; both had pierced each other at the same time with their bayonets. They had met face to face in this dark hall, and with the same action they had impaled each other. Death had taken them there, both standing up imprisoned between the two walls of the narrow passage, united by the thrust that had killed them.

To finish, I wish to relate the story of this brave French officer, who in a sharp fight discovered a Prussian officer hidden behind a locomotive. The two men looked at each other, and with one accord they walked fifteen steps away and took position for a duel. "Shoot," said the Frenchman. The German obeyed, but missed his aim. The Frenchman then lifted his arm, and his adversary fell pierced with a bullet.

I believe sincerely that even our enemy cannot deny the value of the French soldier. Indeed, the fault of our troops in an excess of courage. When riding through the forests our cavalry even refuse to deaden the noise of the horses' hoofs by riding on the grassy side of the road. They sing, they laugh, they gallop.

This war is a war of a new kind, where the events succeed each other with a great inexampled rapidity—it is the effort of whole nations.

Oh! The dash of our men rushing to the fight! The magnificent determination of those who, each day, go to fill up the gaps; the herosim of the families bearing their anguish and mourning their dead.

Those men are the flower of France, who scorn all danger, and who rush toward death for the honor of the flag and of the country.

EYE-WITNESS TELLS HOW JEMTCHUG WENT BELOW

Emden Swung in Close as if to Anchor and Then Launched Torpedo.

London, Nov. 13.—The morning Post's Calcutta correspondent says: "An eye-witness of the sinking of the Russian cruiser Jemtchug at Penang by the German cruiser Emden has arrived here. He says that when the Emden approached she was believed by the Russians to be the British cruiser Yarmouth.

"The Emden swung in close to the Jemtchug, as if to anchor. Then she suddenly launched a torpedo, striking the Jemtchug amidships. This was promptly followed by a broadsides. The Jemtchug blew up with a deafening roar, when the shots reached her magazine. The whole affair did not last twenty minutes. There was scarcely a single survivor from the Jemtchug."

Shipping News from Day to Day

BIG FLYERS PREPARE FOR MAIDEN VOYAGES

Great Northern Leaves New York for 'Frisco Jan. 27; Sistership Feb. 17

W. R. Dale, local agent for the Great Northern, has been advised of the sailing dates of the two new palatial coasting steamers, Great Northern and Northern Pacific, on their maiden voyages from New York to San Francisco via the Panama canal. The advices state that the former will clear the Hudson river on January 27 and the latter on February 17. It is expected that the speedy ships will complete the voyage in about 15 days. Immediately after their arrival at the Golden Gate, both ships will be given a touch-up and will prepare to enter the service between 'Frisco and Flavel, the terminus on the Columbia river.

Passengers are now being booked in New York for the trip to San Francisco on both of the huge steamships. Among those who have made reservations on the Great Northern are: Geo. H. Lorimer, editor of Saturday Evening Post; Samuel G. Blythe, famous journalist and editor of the American "Who's Who"; John Ringling, the circus magnate, and Julius Meier, of Meier & Frank, Portland, Ore. It is expected that many British Columbians who are in the east on business trips will seize the opportunity to travel home on these magnificent steamships, and view the Panama canal, the greatest engineering feat of the past generation. The officials of the Great Northern Pacific Steamship company, which is having the ships built, expect that both ships will carry full passenger lists on their maiden voyages.

Huge, Fast and Luxurious.

The Great Northern and Northern Pacific are huge, fast and luxurious steamships. On the run between Flavel and San Francisco the flyers are to maintain a sea speed of 23 knots an hour and will complete the run in a day and a night. They will equal the time of the fastest express trains which operate between the two terminals. The two ships are being turned out at Cramps' shipyards, Philadelphia, and are both in the water. Mechanics are now at work finishing off the interior of the ships and getting the powerful turbines in perfect shape for the trial trips.

They will be the largest steamships operating in the coastwise trade. In fact they are regular ocean-going ships. They have a length of 524 feet and have six decks. They will have accommodation for 550 first-class, 108 second-class, and 198 third-class passengers. The observation rooms on the vessels will be 60 feet by 125 feet and the smoking rooms, lounge rooms, ladies' parlors, writing rooms, music and dance halls, libraries are all fine, spacious compartments, finished in a most tasteful manner. The dining rooms are works of art in finish and 300 guests may be accommodated at each sitting.

It is believed that the company may send one of its ships to Victoria to be inspected, providing the travel to 'Frisco is not very heavy early in the year. These two ships will do an enormous trade next year as a result of the Panama fair at the Bay city.

HOW H. M. S. BERWICK TOOK THE SPREEWALD

Details from England show that the capture of the German steamer Spreewald by H. M. S. Berwick, had an amusing side.

The Berwick had captured the Thor, with a cargo of coal, and, as her own bunkers required replenishing, the captain decided to coal on the high seas. While this operation was in progress the lookout reported a steamer on the weather bow.

She continued to approach, but getting nervous as to the nationality of the Berwick (which vessel still continued coaling), the captain of the Spreewall changed her course and hauled off. However, when almost out of sight the captain, evidently concluding that a British man-of-war would not be coaling on the high seas, again put his ship about, and came full stetam on in the direction of the Berwick.

Within about a quarter of a mile of the British cruiser, the Spreewald rounded up, and displayed the German flag, to which the Berwick replied by hoisting the St. George's ensign at the forepeak, and a few minutes later a prize crew took possession of the German vessel.

Captain Heintze's chagrin at this occurrence can better be imagined than described.

TEES RUNS ASHORE DURING BAD STORM

C. P. R. West Coast Steamer Hit in Alberni Canal Last Night; Floats Again

During the bad weather which visited the whole of the Pacific coast last night the C. P. R. steamer Tees, Capt. E. Gilliam, ran ashore in the Alberni Canal. She floated after being held fast for a few hours and continued on her voyage to Victoria. The Tees will arrive here this afternoon and the exact details of the accident and the amount of damage sustained by the ship will be ascertained.

Owing to the wireless restrictions which have been in effect since the commencement of the war, few details of the mishap were received by the C. P. R. officials. It appears that the Tees had just left Alberni on her way from Clayoquot. A violent gale was blowing at the time and a blinding snowstorm was raging. The Tees was picking her way out of the canal and through deviating slightly from her course fetched up on a hard bottom.

It is not anticipated that the Tees has sustained any material damage, for after floating she was able to continue her voyage to Victoria. The steamer is scheduled to sail for Holberg one week from to-night.

Ships Are Buffetted.

All the C. P. R. ferry steamers which were at sea last night encountered the terrific weather. The Princess Alice, Capt. Brown, on her way from Vancouver to Victoria on the midnight run, got a buffetting in the Gulf of Georgia. There was a heavy sea running and the ship pitched considerably. The vessels operating on the triangular run felt the fury of the storm and the Princess Mary, which left here at midnight for Vancouver, also had a rough time. The schedules of the steamer, however, were unaffected, every ship arriving at her destination on time.

FEAR SOME SHIP HAS MET FATE OFF COAST

Wreckage Cast Up at Hesquiat and Nootka is Cause of Anxiety

Wreckage which has been cast up by the sea in the vicinity of Estevan, on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, has led to the belief that some vessel has been battered to pieces by a recent violent storm. Last night the wireless operator at Estevan sent a radiogram to the headquarters here, stating that four life-preservers had been picked up and a quantity of wreckage had reached the beaches near there. Three of the cork jackets were found at Hesquiat and the fourth at Nootka. They all bore, as near as could be deciphered, the name of Kennewick. Residents of the two towns are now scanning every piece of wreckage which comes ashore to learn a little more concerning the ship.

Latest shipping papers to hand do not contain any vessel by the name of Kennewick, but it is quite possibit that the name on the life-preservers had become almost obliterated by the action of the water, making it necessary to guess at the letters.

It is expected that the steamer Tees, which is due in from the West Coast this afternoon, may have something to tell of the wreckage which has been cast up by the sea. It is feared that disaster has overtaken some ship off the graveyard of the Pacific and further details are anxiously awaited.

HUGE MASS OF ROCK WHERE TAHOMA LIES

Survey Steamer Patterson at Seattle With Interesting Story of Her Trip

Seattle, Nov. 13.—That the uncharted reef in the Pacific ocean, 31 miles from Buldir Island, on which the revenue cutter Tahoma went to her doom September 20, is a huge mass of submerged rocks and approximately two miles across, is the news brought by Capt. J. B. Miller, commander of the United States coast and geodetic survey steamer Patterson which reached Seattle yesterday from the north. The Patterson was the first vessel to head for the scene of the wreck when the Tahoma's "S. O. S." call was received and played a part in the rescue of the survivors that will long be remembered. She had charge of the rescue work.

The Tahoma lay on her side near the centre of the reef, which is covered with thick kelp. The reef is surrounded by shoals through which a channel runs toward the rocks. The rescue work was undertaken by the Patterson and the Alaska Steamship company's freighter Cordova, both vessels running constant danger from the fact that they were sailing through uncharted waters, with stormy weather to add to their troubles.

Provisions Run Short.

The Patterson was in Unimak Pass, 700 miles from the wreck, when she received the call for help. She fought her way through a gale to Unalaska, where she coaled and then set out to the rescue, reaching the wrecked Tahoma September 26. On September 27 the Cordova started back to Unalaska with 58 survivors, and the Patterson steamed to the western point of Agattu Island, where she rescued the remaining survivors, 29 in number. All were in good condition, but had no provisions and were living on one meal a day, their diet consisting of mussels and other shell fish and seagulls.

To go to the rescue of the Tahoma survivors, the Patterson had to abandon temporarily half her crew, which was encamped at Unga. By the time she was able to pick the men up after her return from the westward, they were almost at the end of their provisions. The Tahoma survivors were landed at Unalaska.

The Patterson left Seattle in May for her summer survey work in the north. She charted a large part of the coast of the Alaska peninsula between Unimak Pass and Chignik, especially in the Shumagin Islands, where many careful surveys were made of harbors and channels. She also made soundings off the approach to Unimak Pass. Thirty men all told were maintained in camps on shore, using power boats for their survey work, while the ship was making soundings at sea. Since leaving Seattle, the Patterson has steamed 20,000 miles, including 8,000 miles while making soundings. The number of soundings totaled 70,000, covering an area of 2,500 square miles.

Once a doctor received a note asking him to come at once to a case of smallpox, but on arriving at the patient's bedside the doctor found that it was merely a case of rheumatism. "But this is plainly not smallpox." "Well, doctor," was the reply "to tell you the truth we knew it was rheumatism. But there was nobody in the house could spell rheumatism, and we thought smallpox would do just as well till you came, and perhaps bring you quicker."

VICTORIA AGENTS TO LEAVE ON PRESIDENT

Wm. Allan and Ross Osborne Making Educational Tour; Many Passengers Booked

Victoria representatives of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company are now to have their turn at making a trip to the California ports of call of the line, in order to familiarize themselves with the route. To-night William M. Allan, of R. P. Rithet & Co., and Ross L. Osborne, of Claude A. Solly's office, will board the steamship President and make the round trip on her. They will visit San Francisco, San Pedro, Los Angeles and San Diego, returning here one week from Monday. S. J. Burford, of the United States Immigration office, is making the trip with Mr Allen and Mr. Osborne.

In order to have their agents well versed in all the services which it operates, the Pacific Coast Steamship Company sometime ago decided to take its representatives over the routes. The agents in California have made the trip and now it is the turn of the northern men to take in the southern voyage. The Pacific Coast heads want to give their representatives a proper education in their business so that they will be in a better position to answer inquiries regarding the trips.

Big List Leaving.

A big list of passengers is leaving Victoria to-night on the President. She has a large number from Tacoma and Seattle and when the local travelers embark she will have nearly a full list. Among those who will join the ship at the outer docks are the following: W. S. Starling, John Hadley, H. Tunbridge, M. Simpson, Mrs. M. Lynn, Miss. F. L. Willister, Miss E. Farthing, Miss A. Farthing, Mrs. M. Farthing, Miss Maxine Meacham, Miss Woneta Meacham, Mrs. W. P. Meacham, Miss J. Brotley, Miss Frances E. Green, Ralph Borthwich, A. Kerset and S. J. Piercey.

The President is taking south a heavy cargo of general merchandise.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

Esquimalt.—To find the depth of water on the sill of the dry dock at any tide, add 19.0 feet to the height of high water as above given. Tidal differences for Fuca and Haro Straits are given in the foregoing list.

THOR OFF FOR AUSTRALIA

Aberdeen, Nov. 13.—The Norwegian steamer Thor, under charter to Mind, Rolph & Co., passed out to sea Wednesday evening bound for Mukilteo to complete her cargo for Australia. It is quite pleasing to local shipping interests that the Thor was dispatched without delay, as it places this port on equal footing with Puget sound ports and ahead of other Bar Harbor ports on the Pacific coast.

At the present time the government soundings show thirty feet of water in the channel over the bar, and with the recent appropriation given by the United States army engineer board, work is being rushed on the north jetty and will be continued all wintor until the jetty is brought up to high water mark for the entire length

PARABLE OF THE ARMAGEDDON.

To the Editor:—The parables of our Lord are prophetic as well as didactic. Here is one that deals exactly with the Armageddon movement, and tells us the exact result. All I need do is to define two words, and you can apply the parable yourself. "Sheep" means those who adopt into practice the principle of the universal brotherhood of man. "Goats" means those who still adhere to the principle of special privilege, the divine right, might is right, etc. Note the surprise of each class at the end; and watch with your own eyes the actual fulfillment of this prophecy.

"Before Him shall be gathered all nations; and He shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats. And He shall set the sheep on His right hand, but the goats on the left. Then shall the King say unto them on His right hand: Come, ye blessed of My Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world; for I was an hungered and ye gave Me meat; I was thirsty and ye gave Me drink; I was a stranger and ye took Me in; naked and ye clothed Me; I was sick and ye visited Me; I was in prison and ye came unto Me. Then shall the righteous answer Him, saying: Lord, when saw we Thee an hungered and fed thee? or thirsty and gave Thee drink? when saw we Thee a stranger and took Thee in? or naked and clothed Thee? or when saw we Thee sick, or in prison, and came unto Thee? And the King shall answer and say unto them: Verily, I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren (Belgium), ye have done it unto Me. Then shall He say also unto them on the left hand: Depart from Me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels: for I was an hungered, and ye gave Me no meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave Me no drink; I was a stranger, and ye took Me not in; naked, and ye clothed Me not; sick, and in prison, and ye visited Me not. Then shall they also answer Him, saying: Lord, when saw we Thee an hungered, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto Thee? Then shall He answer them, saying: Verily, I say unto you, inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these (Belgium), ye did it not to Me. And these shall go away into everlasting punishment; but the righteous into life eternal."

MINE REPORTS.

To the Editor:—Under the above-quoted heading The Times on November 10 inst. published a lengthy letter to which was appended the name James Clark. The first sentence reads thus: "I have recently had my attention drawn to the worthless character of the official reports issued from the office of the minister of mines in this province."

As one who has frequently to use information contained in the reports mentioned, in preparing contributions for various publications of generally acknowledged good standing and reliability, I have not the slightest hesitation in stating that there is in those official annual reports very much that, far from being "worthless," is of great value to those requiring to be reliably informed concerning the mineral production of British Columbia year by year and the progress of the mining industry in the province.

As to the remainder of your verbose correspondent's communication, I gather that the burden of his complaint is that Mr. D. G. Forbes, the fully qualified and experienced mining engineer employed by the provincial department of mines to investigate and report on mining conditions as he found them in certain camps on the west coast of Vancouver Island, did not give a glowing account of the 633 acres under crown grant Mr. Clark says "we own." Well, it is no new experience to find that a claim-owner expects a mining engineer to recognize in his ugly little duckling unmistakable indications of its eventually developing into a big white swan. As evidence of the productiveness of the claims under notice, or perhaps only of the assay value of some specimens of ore (probably selected) from them, Mr. Clark quotes Mr. Herbert Carmichael's reference in the report of 1899 to "5 pounds of ore taken from this working," for he does not mention any other output of ore, which to most mining men is largely the measure of value of a property. True, Mr. Forbes reported that "about seven tons of ore had been broken, but there appeared to be no more in place."

If Mr. Clark and his associates have owned the 633 acres since 1899 and have made so little practical or commercial use of the property, it would seem that he is abundantly justified in his reference to "the iniquitous crown grant law that prevails in this province and keeps hundreds of miners out of employment." The wonder is that he has thus given himself away as one who has for so long taken advantage of such iniquity, for, by his own showing, "such like are a curse and a detriment to legitimate mining in the province."

"IT'S A LONG WAY TO—"

E. A. Morphy in the Pall Mall Gazette.

Heloise De Picardie—
Englishman, Englishman, marching by the vine,
Singing such a merry song, and airy,
Tell me, is this Picardy, sunny land of mine,
Half so much jolie as Tipperairee?

M. Atkins De Londres—
Wot oh!—Tipperary, Miss?—Honest, I dunno;
Only wot some donah, neme of Mary,
Lives there, and from Lunnon it's a stiffish bit to go,
That's all I can tell of Tipperary.

Heloise De Picardie—
Highlander, Highlander, rollicking along;
How you sing so prettily, mon cheri!
Tell me of the valley that you are praising in your song—
Are the blossoms fair in Tipperairee?

Corporal "Mac" De Glesga—
Bonnie lass, bonnie lass, we be Scots sae braw,
Therefore we be canny men and wary,
Aiblins we micht tell a lass o' hoo the gowans graw,
Naethin' do we ken o' Tupperary.

Heloise De Picardie—
Irishman, Irishman, sing to the breeze,
Warbling of your country and the fairy,
Waiting for her soldier in your Erin overseas,
Tell me of your love and Tipperairee!

Le Fusilier O'Hara—
Bless yer sowl, acushla! sure you've got me in a spell,
Askin' such a question; for I've nary
Swateheart—less yerself 'll say the word—an', sad to tell,
I've niver set a fut in Tipperary.

FEAR OF THE BAYONET.

Private A. H. Fleet, of the First Coldstream Guards, writing to a friend, explains that "an officer took six men and a sergeant up to the left of our position to put a machine-gun belonging to the enemy out of action. We managed this, but the consequences were a few shells from a neighboring field-gun, which killed two outright, mortally wounded another, and wounded the sergeant and the other two, only leaving the officer and myself intact. We then retired behind a haystack. The enemy must have seen us, as they put nine shells into it before it fired, and then we had to run behind another stack, and I bandaged the sergeant up and sent him to hospital. After that two wounded men, myself and the officer, took thirty-nine German prisoners. I thought we were in for it when we were ordered to fix our bayonets, and at the sight of this the German cowards threw down their arms, which we broke up and threw their ammunition into a river, and then took them to brigade headquarters, where they were put under an escort and taken away. We were thanked by the captain for the way we did it."

A REAL "SURPRISE PACKET."

Writing to a friend at Newport (Mon.) Private T. Percy says:—"I had the pleasure of speaking to a German prisoner the other day, and he said Germany would have beaten Russia and France easily, and they were prepared for it; but when they heard Britain was fighting against them it took all the go out of them, and they were glad to get out of it. He said he could not understand how the 'ballet girls'—Scots—got around them so quickly. This man was working in London, and spoke good English. Their food had been mangold wurzels and horseflesh, as he said they could not get rations. Another batch of Germans was captured in a loft. They said—'If you were French, we would fight to the bitter end, but you English are gentlemen, and we give ourselves up to you willingly.' When one of them was told of their dirty way of fighting, he said their officers forced them to do dirty work at the point of the revolver. The other day 2,000 Germans put up the white flag. Immediately behind them were 5,000 Germans with fixed bayonets. We smelt a rat, and got around their flank while cracking on to take them prisoners, when the artillery opened fire and put them all out of mess in twenty minutes. None got away. 'English surprise packet,' one said."

VICTORIA BATTALION PERSONNEL COMPLETE

Lieut.-Colonel Hall Receives Sanction of Department of Militia for List of Officers

Lt.-Col. J. A. Hall, officer commanding the Victoria battalion of the second expeditionary force, last night received word from the department of militia, Ottawa, of the minister's approval of the list of officers forwarded to him as the proposed staff of the battalion.

This completes the personnel of the battalion, and it will now be possible for the officer commanding to allot officers to each company, and the selection of non-commissioned officers will then proceed, when the battalion will be thoroughly organized.

Major de Salis, of the 88th Fusiliers, is senior major; Major Roberts, of the 50th Highlanders, is junior major; Lieutenant Townsend, of the 50th Highlanders, is adjutant; Major Booth, signalling officer; Lieutenant Hirsch, machine gun officer; Lieutenant Wollaston, officer in charge of transportation; Lieutenant A. L. Jones, medical officer; Lieutenant Guest, quartermaster; Lieutenant H. L. Roberts, paymaster.

The company officers are as follows:

Captains—A. Bruce Powley Moorhead, Lt.-Col. C. W. Peck, Prince Rupert; Asser, Redpath and Pott, with two others to be promoted from among the lieutenants.

Lieutenants—Harvey, Jones, Lee, Locke, Major, Carew Martin, A. Martin, E. T. Martin, Muirhead, Mackenzie, Matthews, Nason, Price, Rowley, Rochford, Tennant, Walker and Wheadon.

The remainder of the 88th Fusiliers will be commanded for the present by Captain H. J. Rous Cullin, and the remainder of the 50th Highlanders by Captain Forsythe. It is understood that the ranks of both regiments will be recruited up to strength again, but no steps have been authorized yet in this connection. As there are a great many men who have been anxious to join either one or other of the corps, but were unable to do so owing to the lack of vacancies, it is not anticipated that there will be any delay in filling the vacant places once the order is given to resume recruiting.

There was a splendid parade of the Victoria Volunteer Guard last night at the headquarters, 924 Douglas street, but owing to the rain preventing any outdoor parade only physical drill was given in the rooms.

Sergeant-Major Wheeler gave a very interesting lecture on the massacre of the 24th regiment (now the South Wales Borderers) at Isandula, Zululand, and also a description of the battles of Ingogo, Echowe, Rorke's Drift and Ulundi, on July 4, 1879.

The Imperial Veterans' association is meeting with much success in its efforts to find employment for ex-service men who are out of work at present in Victoria. A general appeal is made to all who have need of a man to do any sort of work about their gardens or premises to give these men a chance to earn a little to keep the wolf from the door.

To the following who have given generous assistance to ex-service men the thanks of the association are expressed: F. R. Stewart & Co., Swift Canadian Co., Dixi H. Ross & Co., Copas & Young, Victoria Fruit & Poultry Co., Scott & Peden, Butterworth & Duckie, L. Goodacre & Sons, P. McQuade & Son, T. Lawson & Co., A. P. Slade & Co.

The Victoria volunteer reserve paraded last evening at the drill hall, where the companies were put through company and battalion drill by Capt. D. B. McConnan and Capt. W. H. Langley. A number of recruits were sworn in.

It is expected, in view of the number of men who are offering their services as members of the reserve, that some further companies will be formed in the near future. The next parade will be held at the drill hall on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

A school of instruction under the direction of Capt. Smith, R.C.R., will be opened at Work Point barracks on Monday for officers resident on Vancouver Island who desire to take the course for promotion to captain and pass the examination.

Sergeant H. A. Farr, of Victoria, a non-commissioned officer of the Canadian Aviation Corps, who left the city with the first contingent, has written to J. W. Cook announcing his safe arrival in the old land. He has received his appointment with the flying corps since he landed. An old country paper, referring to him, speaks of his revisiting his old home in the potteries district, which he left ten years ago, and of his interest in aviation. Before he left here Sergeant Farr had deloped a great interest in aerial navigation, and was proposing to fly at the Panama-Pacific fair.

WAS BASEBALL PLAYER.

Charles Davey Died This Morning; Played Once in Northwestern League.

Charles Davey, a bartender at the Bank Exchange hotel, died quite suddenly this morning from heart failure. A son of the late Police Commissioner Davey, of Portland, Oregon, of which city he was a native, the late Charlie Davey came here first in 1892 with the Stanford University baseball team.

Early in the 'nineties, he joined the Seattle baseball team with the Northwestern league, and for several years was associated with it, travelling all through the Pacific coast cities, and becoming widely known among baseball devotees. It was in 1910 that he came to Victoria, his first associations here being with the Canadian Mineral Rubber company. Later he became bartender at the Panama hotel, where he remained until about a year ago, when he took his recent position as bartender at the Bank Exchange. During his four years' residence here he made many acquaintances and friends in the city.

Before coming to Victoria he lived for some time in the interior, at one time being paymaster for the C. P. R. works at Crow's Nest Pass. Later he went to the Granby Smelter company's works, and about five years ago had a hotel at Fernie.

His wife and one child are at present in Eastern Canada, and one brother and one sister live in Portland.

STOLE BOOTS

Two Men Sent to Jail for Two Months for Theft; One Wants to Join Contingent.

Convicted of stealing a pair of boots from the Old Country Shoe store, Johnson street, Joseph Nelson and William Collins were this morning sentenced each to two months in jail. Collins made a plea for a light sentence on the ground that he was anxious to go with the second contingent.

Ralph Woodward gave evidence of having placed several pairs of boots for exhibition on a tree or shelf outside the store. In the evening several pairs were missing. He identified the footwear produced as one of the pairs he had lost.

Jacob Aaronson told of the coming of the two prisoners to his second hand store with the boots. He had offered them 50 cents which was accepted. Collins had told him that he had more boots if he cared to take them.

Detective Heather arrested the two after watching them come out of the store and pass on into a saloon. Collins had fifty cents on him when arrested.

Both men pleaded ignorance of the whole affair, stating that they were drunk at the time and did not know what they were doing.

REVUE CHARMS MANY BY MUSICAL FEATURES

Royal Victoria Theatre Well Filled for Patriotic Entertainment Despite Rain

A surprisingly large audience, considering the elements, attended the grand military musical revue presented last evening at the Royal Victoria theatre under the joint auspices of the Victoria Amateur Dramatic club and the Victoria Amateur Operatic society. The performers did full justice to their reputations as entertainers of a high class order, and the event went off to the accompaniment of enthusiastic applause which broke incessantly from the house as the entertainment proceeded.

The opening scene, with its big hall (afterwards transformed by the erection of the booths at the bazaar) was given a splendid introduction by the rousing singing, by a full chorus of costumed performers, of "The Soldiers' Chorus" from Faust, and from that point on to the close of the entertainment not a dull moment was experienced. Organized in the splendid manner characteristic of the entertainments given under the auspices of these favorably known amateur societies, the revue marshalled together with quite a charming continuity all the latest military songs and catchy tunes. The costuming was admirable and the backgrounds of the two acts were delightfully realistic, particularly that of Act II., showing the camping ground at Valcartier with its myriad tents, distant hills, and early morning mists and clouds, being extremely good.

In a programme of such variety and excellence it is somewhat difficult to draw distinctions. All the performers, in their respective capacities, were all that could be wished, and popularity rested more with the appeal of the numbers than with the ability of the performers. Doubtless one of the most favored by the audience of all the numbers was the duet by Mrs. Millions (Mrs. Roy Troup) and Colonel Blanchard (H. J. Davis), "Come, Come, Come to the Motherland," in the chorus of which the entire company and audience joined. The number closed Act I. in the best possible manner, several encores being demanded before the curtain was finally dropped, on this scene. Mrs. Millions during the same act won a tremendous ovation for her sympathetic and stirring rendering of "Your King and Country Need You," and, in Act II., "The Language of Flowers," in duet with Mr. Pilkington, was given an almost equally warm reception.

Messrs. Horton and MacKenzie were delightfully and entertainingly funny throughout in the respective roles of Bob Awkins and Corporal Campbell. The latter distinguished himself by a strong accent with a nose to match, the former by a liberal omission of his aspirates. Together they did a number of amusing dances, and took a very prominent part, with the sergeant-major (Mr. Macauley), who gave a taking rendering of "Soldiers in the Park," in the procession of nurse maids with their go-carts and proverbial predilection for "Tommies."

Besides Mrs. Millions, there was her daughter Margery (Miss Eva Hart), who appeared in a shepherdess frock and sang and danced in the most enchanting manner, notably "My Heart's at Your Feet," and, in due with Tom (W. F. L. Pilkington), the delightfully tuneful number, "Roses Red and White." In Act II., wearing a green costume, she again appeared in "Men, Men, Humbugging Men," in which her dainty dance pleased no less than her singing.

Kitty O'Connor (Miss Phyllis Davis) got a very enthusiastic reception, a wave of applause breaking from the house as she made her appearance prior to the singing of "I'll Make a Man of Every One of You." Petite and engaging of manner, and wearing a smart little khaki uniform with saucily-tilted cap, she captured her audience no less than the recruits whom she managed with such taking skill. Her "Whoopsie Daisy," in the costume which is not unremembered by those who have heard her engaging performance of this song, took well, and again in "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," with its additional verses about the kaiser, she scored. Paddy, a green cap and breeches augmenting her success.

An old favorite appeared in Colonel Blanchard (H. L. Davis), and contributed to the character of the plot no less than to its musical features. "Motherland" in Act. I was received well, but the most successful of the Colonel's songs was the "Boys of the Old Brigade" in Act II., which summoned forth six of the old veterans of the Campaigners' Association. The house rose as a man to honor them, and joined heartily in the chorus of the song. With a shade more humor but with none the less sincerity, the same honor was accorded the squad of Boy Scouts which came in immediately afterwards and took up saluting positions on the stage. "Here's a Health Unto His Majesty," sung with chorus by the Colonel, also brought the house to its feet, everyone thereby heartily endorsing the loyal toast to King George.

R. Hamilton Earle, who did yeoman service as musical conductor of the proceedings throughout, at the close of a short parry of words over the footlights with Corporal Campbell, ascended the platform and gave a spirited rendering of "The Vigil," by Private Wyatt of Vancouver.

Perhaps one of the most delightful bits of the entire programme was that provided by a quartette composed of Colonel Blanchard, Tom, Sergeant-Major, and D. C. Hughes in the opening camp scene. "Loch Lomond," "My Old Stable Jacket," "Old Folks," and "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" were first sung by the entire company of soldiers, after which "The Minstrel Boy," full of pathos and patriotic spirit, and the more sentimental "Soldiers' Farewell" were sung by the quartette, while the soldiers busied themselves in such homely duties as cleaning their pipes and reading letters and papers from home.

Jabez Fitzhugh and Mr. Millions (A. H. Simpson) were among the characters who appeared on the stage during the evening, and the following ladies appeared very effectively in the procession of Britannia and her overseas dominions and allies: Britannia, Mrs. Ketchen; Canada, Miss D. Campbell; Australia, Miss Heyland; New Zealand, Miss G. Crosse; India, Mrs. Cornwall; France, Miss L. Little; Russia, Miss P. Irving; Servia, Mrs. McConnan; Japan, Miss Rosher. But where was South Africa?

MARKET HELD TO-DAY IN THE NEW QUARTERS

Large Supply of Produce on Sale; Gordon Head Association Sends Apples

The transfer of the city produce market to its home in the Market building, after an experimental period of two months, took place to-day, and a larger number of customers and salesmen attended than was ever the case at the open space on the other side of the street.

Some sixty stalls and tables were buried beneath a wealth of garden, dairy and general farm produce, and the orchards of the Gulf Islands, the market gardens of the suburbs, and the piggeries of the island had all been called on to provide the produce which found a ready sale during the morning hours.

The four groups of stalls all had their individual specialties, although no restrictions had been put in force requiring articles to be limited to a particular line of stalls, save in the case of meats. The butchers were all located in Group D on a concrete floor, an absolute necessity to the trade. This had the effect of bringing trade to the row of stalls opposite, which might have been neglected had it not been for the presence of the butchers.

Although it had been hoped that special efforts would be made to increase the sale of apples as part of the apple festival here, the two stalls held by the Gordon Head Fruitgrowers' association were the only ones specializing in fruit. This was thought to be due to the fact that the season is getting late and most of the farmers have already arranged for the marketing of their crop. The Gordan Head stalls were soon depleted of the best fruit. Even before being put up, a complete row of boxes was sold out, this greatly lessening the display on the counter.

A fine feature of the market this week was the splendid dairy-fed pork on sale. There was a good supply of poultry, eggs and vegetables. Late as is the season flowers were on sale, and appeared to be a welcome addition to the things offered to purchasers.

The introduction of the practice of making a small charge to producers using tables and stalls seems to have had no bad effect on the success of the proposal, and it is thought that additional stalls could be filled. Certainly by next spring there will be people to occupy them.

FIRST OF THE SNOW.

Sooke Hills To-day Wear a Seasonable Winter Appearance, and Further Falls Are Likely.

The first snow of the season fell yesterday on the Sooke hills, and to-day a winter landscape greets the eye when it turns towards the west. After the downpour of yesterday and last night the atmosphere to-day is clear, and the hills are brought quite close. With the sun glistening on the touches of snow lying in the shady corners there is an inspiration and a call to the foyer of walking to set out on a long tramp.

The weather indications are that there will be a slightly lower temperature for the next day or two, and it would not be surprising if there was a little more snow falling on the hills. It is quite seasonable to see it now, and the chill in the air to-day is healthful and invigorating.

On the Olympic mountains there has been a good deal of snow falling in the past few days, and evidently a lot of the precipitation that came here as rain fell across the Straits as snow.

N. Ferguson with intent thereby to defraud and injure the said R. N. Ferguson contrary to the statutes in such cases made and provided." As the accused's solicitor, H. W. R. Moore is out of town, a remand until Monday next, was asked for and obtained.

TEMPERATURE OF BEER

Local Firm Sues Revelstoke Hotelkeeper for Price of Imported Beverage Sold Him.

The temperature at which Humber beer should be kept to prevent it from souring, and the length of time which it will last under ordinary circumstances, were questions which were argued in Judge Lampman's court this morning, in a suit in which the Germannia Importing company, of this city, sued Henry J. McSorley, of the King Edward hotel, Revelstoke, for $89.55. There was a counter-claim by McSorley against the company for $11.70 paid on carriage of empty kegs.

Frank Higgins appeared for the plaintiff company and W. C. Moresby for the defendant.

H. W. Kostenbader, president and manager of the company, testified to having brought the Humbser beer to the attention of Mr. McSorley while the latter was here last spring, following which weekly shipments were made to Revelstoke. In June seven kegs were shipped, and not being paid for action was entered. In cross-examination Mr. Kostenbader stated that the beer could not have been sour when shipped from here, for although the kegs went forward just as they were received from Bavaria, he knew that the beer in them was fresh by the other kegs in the same shipment being so. It would be impossible for seven kegs to be sour and the rest of the car to be good, so that the beer must have been improperly handled after leaving here.

Mr. McSorley described how the beer was kept in Revelstoke in the cold storage plant of the Calgary Brewing company, and the manner in which he took it out and used it. Owing to business falling off he found his stock getting ahead of him. To Mr. Higgins he said the cold storage plant was a good one and was used by the agents of the Calgary company to keep its beer in. He admitted that two kegs of the June shipment were tapped and both were sound.

Patrick Dolan, bartender for Mr. McSorley, was questioned by counsel for the defence as to the style of the cold storage plant, and was rather like Sam Weller in his answers.

Mr. Kostenbader expressed the opinion that interior plants were probably not kept at the equable temperature that was required for the Humbser beer, and this was expanded by his counsel in addressing the court.

Mr. Moresby relied upon the clauses in the Sale of Goods act giving the buyer a right of reliance on the seller's skill or judgment as to the goods being fit for sale.

The court found the case a difficult one to decide, owing to the absence of any evidence as to the actual condition of the beer when it left Victoria or when it reached Revelstoke. His honor found, however, that the plaintiff company was entitled to recover the price of four of the kegs but not as to the others, and gave a decree for $66. On the counter-claim, it not being denied in the pleadings, he gave judgment for the defendant, but this lack of denial saved the plaintiff company from having to pay the costs of the witnesses coming here from Revelstoke to prove the case.

BULLISH ELEMENTS IN LOCAL LIST APPARENT

Advance Movements in Prices Hindered by Dull Interest

This morning the list bore a slow appearance throughout the session, yet several issues denoted inherent firmness. It was a market not bereft of bullish elements sufficient to start prices on the upward grade, did the condition of things allow.

With speculative enthusiasm so dead a quality, the staying power in the list is mediocre, so that when any advance is scored in any one issue, the movement will come to a halt for lack of permanency in the bidding.

Standard Lead particularly, and others, including Coronation, Portland and B. C. Refining, all maintained their levels to-day. There were cheaper offerings of Rambler and Snowstorm, two issues enjoying more of an outside than immediately local interest, although both British Columbian properties.

WINNIPEG WHEAT IS LOWER AT CLOSING

Winnipeg, Nov. 13.—Wheat prices on the Winnipeg market opened unchanged to ½c. lower; oats, ½c. higher; and flax, 2c. to 2½c. higher. Heavy selling operations developed later causing sharp declines. Peace rumors were again prominent, causing the break. Trading was fairly heavy in options. Previous to noon wheat had declined 1½c. to 1¾c. and showed weak. Closing figures were ⅞c. to 1¾c. lower for wheat; oats, ½c. to ⅝c. lower; and flax, 2¼c. to 3c. higher.

A feature of to-day's trading was the excellent demand for all grades of cash wheat by millers and exporters, yet prices went lower. Cash oats and barley were in fair request, while cash flax was in keen demand, and a number of sales were put through at higher prices. Inspections were 527 cars inspected Thursday as against 1,448 last year, and in sight were 425 cars.

PIT QUOTATIONS ARE HAMPERED BY WIRES

Prices Finished at One Cent Rally From Bottom Quotations

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

Chicago, Nov. 13.—Owing to a disrupted wire service to-day, out-going quotations were few and far between. There was a two cent range for the session in wheat, with prices barely one cent up from the extreme low point at the finish.

Action of the market appears chiefly contingent on the export business, and the softening in futures is reflecting rather quiet seaboard business for the time being.

NORTH VANCOUVER MAN MISSING FOR TEN DAYS

Accountant of British Canadian Securities Left for Victoria Has Not Returned.

Vancouver, Nov. 13.—Friends of James McPherson of North Vancouver are apprehensive that some untoward fate may have befallen him as he has not been seen at his home for the past ten days and no message of his whereabouts has been received during that time. Mr. McPherson who is head accountant of the British Canadian Securities Company, left his home about ten days ago with a suitcase for Vancouver with the intention of taking the Victoria boat that night. Since that time no trace of him has been found. Inquiry in Victoria has failed to elicit any information.

Mrs. McPherson was unaware that there was anything the matter, as she supposed that her husband was in Victoria on Business.

Mr. McPherson is 27 years old and has been married for three years. He is well known among Vancouver business men and is highly respected.

BURNED TO DEATH IN FIRE FROM GASOLINE

Winnipeg, Nov. 13.—When her clothing caught fire as she was pouring gasoline on a wood fire in the kitchen stove at her home in Fort Rouge this morning, Mrs. Charles Nobbs, aged 25, was burned to death. Her year-old child was so badly burned that it cannot recover.

MANY GERMAN OFFICERS ARE IN TURKISH NAVY

London, Nov. 13.—A Britisher long resident at Constantinople, which city he left November 1, has arrived in London. He says that in addition to the crews of the cruisers Goeben and Breslau, nearly 3,000 German officers are in the Turkish naval service. Two months ago, he says, all the German clerks of house and private establishments were taken over by the military authorities and placed in charge of the telegraph and postal departments and the censorship.

He adds: "Every Turkish ship has a German officer in command. It was a mistake that the khedive was not allowed to return to Egypt some time ago, where he could have carefully watched developments, whereas in Constantinople he is the centre of intrigues of discontented Arabs of the Nationalist party and Germans."

MILLION MORE MEN IN KITCHENER'S ARMY

Parliament Asked to Provide for Additional Force; Britain's Total Now 2,186,400

London, Nov. 13.—A supplementary estimate to provide for another million men required by the British government during the year ending March 31 was introduced in the House of Commons to-day. This brings the total army, not including the territorials, to 2,186,400 officers and men.

The announcement of the presentation to parliament of a measure to vote a credit of £225,000,000 ($1,125,000,000) was issued officially this afternoon. This money is intended to cover not only the naval and military expenditures which may be insured before March 1, but all expenditures which may be necessary or desirable to meet trade or other abnormal conditions created by the war.

This further sum, added to the previous credits voted by parliament, brings the total of credits to £325,000,000.

Ottawa, Nov. 13.—The announcement from London that Great Britain proposes to put an army of two million men in the field has been received with great interest at the capital. It undoubtedly means that a correspondingly big effort must be made by Canada during the next year to maintain a steady and ever-increasing flow of Canadian soldiers toward the firing line in Europe.

It is estimated that if the war is still in progress a year from now Canada will have an army of 150,000 men in the field. Thirty-three thousand have already been sent to Salisbury Plains, 15,000 will go forward in late December or January. Before the end of February it is likely that 70,000 Canadians will have left Canadian shores. The recent advices from the war office to the effect that infantry reinforcements to the number of 25 per cent. per month are expected from Canada means that for this purpose alone from 7,000 to 10,000 recruits will have to be supplied.

In government and military circles it is stated to-day that Canada is prepared for an indefinite period to send forward men as they can be armed and equipped.

NOVA SCOTIA TO HAVE HIGHLANDERS' CORPS

Gifts for Belgians by Tremorva From Halifax Have Reached England.

London, Nov. 13.—General Alderson, commanding the Canadian contingent, who joined the army at Halifax, is taking an active interest in the formation of a body of Nova Scotia Highlanders from the general members of all branches of the contingent. Twelve thousand dollars will be required for alterations to uniforms for this new body.

The Royal Automobile club has generously arranged for twelve motor cars to be placed at the disposal of the Canadian contingent during its stay at Salisbury camp. A car also has been placed exclusively at the disposal of Colonel Ford and the officers of the Nova Scotian medical unit.

The Y. M. C. A. hopes shortly to establish wounded units at Salisbury in place of the recreation marquees.

The steamship Tremorva from Halifax, bearing 5,000 packages of food and clothing, the gift of Nova Scotia to the Belgians, has arrived in England. The Belgian minister, Count de la Laing, has requested the London committee to deal with the gift, a part of which will be distributed among the refugees here and part amongst those on the continent.

HUGHES AGREES TO MEET CANADIANS AT BERLIN

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 13.—In his parting message to officers this morning assembled for review of all soldiers for overseas service, Major-general Hughes said: "I will meet you in Berlin, if I do not have an opportunity of coming to Kingston again before you leave for the front."

He said to-day wet fields at Salisbury Plains was one drawback but to meet this he had ordered three buckle overshoes for the Canadian contingent.

AWARD THREE PRIZES

Apple Festival Window Dressing Competition Judged; Demand for Fruit is Brisk.

The prizes awarded by the judges for the best dressed windows in connection with the apple festival were won as follows: 1, Dixi Ross & Co.; 2, H. O. Kirkham & Co., Ltd.; 3, West End Grocery. The judges were W. E. Scott, deputy minister of agriculture; W. J. Williams, and D. S. Spencer. They also commend the windows of L. D. Rines and Fenerty Brothers.

Among the visitors to the city to-day for the apple festival was J. E. Reekie, of Kelowna, who holds a prominent place in the Okanagan United Growers' association. Members of the executive of the B. C. Fruitgrowers' association, to the executive committee of which body Mr. Reekie belongs, are all highly pleased with the manner in which the Retail Merchants' association has supported the movement, and the cordial sympathy with the movement on the part of hotel and restaurant proprietors and the general public.

The Gordon Head Fruitgrowers' association had two stalls in the market to-day, where apples were sold. The boxes were disposed of readily.

In the stores the demand for British Columbia fruit is reported to be brisk and the number of boxes that have been sold justifies the special effort which is being put forward at this time. Although the festival will end to-morrow, there is every assurance that there will be a permanent result from the endeavor to induce citizens to make sure that the fruit they buy is British Columbia fruit.

TURKEY WENT TO WAR ON TREATY WITH GERMANY

Each Nation Agreed to Assist the Other in Case of War With Russia.

London, Nov. 13.—The Morning Post's Athens correspondent says: "According to statements made by a diplomat here, Turkey was compelled to enter the war by a secret treaty made some years ago with Germany, whereby Turkey would assist Germany if war was declared on Germany by Russia.

"In return, Germany likewise agreed to assist Turkey if Russia declared war on Turkey.

"At the opening of the war, Germany demanded Turkey's assistance, but the Turkish cabinet, which regarded such an act as suicidal, replied that Turkey would be unable to assist because she had no money, because the army was going through a period of reorganization, and because the fleet was powerless to defend the capital.

"Germany answered these objections by sending money, whereupon Turkey was compelled to enter the arena because of her solemn treaty obligations."

AUSTRO-GERMAN ARMY ARE BEATING RETREAT

Paris, Nov. 13.—Three Austro-German armies are retiring toward Thorn and Cracow. It looks as if the Austrian army will be cut off from the Germans and forced to accept battle with their backs against the Carpathians.

BOTHA BEATS DE WET.

London, Nov. 13.—An official dispatch received by Reuter's says that General Louis Botha came into contact with the rebel General de Wet's commando twenty-four miles east of Winburg, Orange River Colony, after a forced night march. The rebels were severely defeated, 250 being taken prisoners.

EXPLOSION DESTROYS FORT GEORGE BLOCK

Loss Following Fire To-day is Estimated at $275,000; Spokane Man Killed

Fort George, B. C., Nov. 13.—Fire which broke out at 2.30 a. m. to-day, caused by an explosion, destroyed an entire block, number 113, on Central avenue, and damaged other buildings across the street, causing a total loss estimated at $275,000, with a total insurance of approximately $100,000. The explosion is believed to have occurred near the main hotel building, which was flanked by a poolroom lighted by a gasoline system.

The heaviest loser is the Fort George hotel, estimated at $150,000. This loss is covered by insurance of $74,000. The hotel, which had 150 rooms, was almost wholly occupied, and, aside from the loss of the life of Richard Spence, of Spokane, it is not yet known whether there were any other fatalities.

The fire broke out apparently with sudden fury, and fanned by a stiff breeze, made an unequal combat against the volunteer fire department with its two chemical engines and its line of hose from the water tower nearby, which was wrecked badly by the explosion.

The fire, it is pointed out, may have started from the hotel annex, in which is housed the electric light and heating plant.

Other losses include Scott's hotel, $2,500; the telephone office, $1,000; Bank of Vancouver; Tower's restaurant, $500; Moore's billiard hall, $500; Oliver's poolroom, $5,000; Kennedy-Blair general store, $20,000; J. P. Robertson's general store, $20,000; Fort George Realty company's building, $1,000; J. McLean, $500.

Several buildings across the street from Central avenue, including the Royal Bank, also suffered. Losses of many buildings also include losses of stocks, bringing the total well up.

The weather is good and there are plenty of empty houses to take care of all the people burned out. The buildings burned were in the centre of the original Hammond townsite.

SEVERAL MEETINGS ENGAGE ALDERMEN

Deputations Are Received by Streets Committee; the Waterworks Suit

This morning a small committee of the city council met a committee of the Oak Bay council to discuss the paving of Fowl Bay road. There is some difficulty in making the road, although it is a boundary one, fall in with the regulations of the municipal act defining boundary roads, as the whole of the roadway is within the municipal limits of Oak Bay. The desire is to determine what owners shall be assessed for the improvement.

A meeting of the streets committee of the city council followed a meeting of the paving committee this afternoon. The streets committee had arranged to receive a deputation from the real estate exchange on the matter of the cemetery site, and a deputation of owners on Dundas street with regard to the assessment on that street.

The city solicitor was to report to the streets committee with regard to the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway company's signature of the Johnson street bridge agreement, as all matters between the city and company have now been adjusted as a result of the solicitor's visit on Tuesday to Vancouver.

It is stated that as soon as there is an opportunity, the Sooke waterworks case will be taken before a Supreme court judge in Vancouver on behalf of the plaintiffs. Then will arise the question of a jury. The city lawyers will resist its being tried by a jury. If the judge grants a jury the case may be heard in Vancouver; if not it will come to Victoria for trial.

The city officials would not indicate to-day what action it would be necessary to adopt in view of the fact that the amount of taxes paid up to Oct. 31, the end of the rebate period as at first arranged, was $700,000 less than the total amount of taxes. Until November 30 it would be premature to deal with the matter. The payment of revenue from other sources than land has been well maintained and is expected to reach $500,000 during the year.

As far as is known there will not be any city cases to bring before the railway commissioners at their session in this city on December 2.

An action has been commenced in the County court by a man named Gaffe, who claims damages from the city for being struck by a piece of rock from a blast fired on the steel pressure pipe line for Sooke waterworks, while he was working on the Canadian Northern Pacific railway grade near Deadman's river. The trench for the waterworks is close by on Helmcken road, and he claims that the rock was hurled out by a blast on the pipe line. The city will resist the claim.

TURKISH TRANSPORTS SUNK IN BLACK SEA

London, Nov. 13.—An official dispatch from Constantinople reaching London by way of Berlin confirms indirectly the recent Russian statement that a Russian fleet has sunk three Turkish transports in the Black Sea. The Constantinople report admits that there has been no news of the three ships since they left the Turkish capital a week ago. It adds that as the vessels were near Songuldak, on the Black Sea, the day this place was bombarded, it is possible that they were attacked by the Russian squadron.

ASKING GIFTS FOR MEN OF CONTINGENT

Association Formed to Distribute Articles Sent by Generous Canadians

The I. O. D. E. will be glad, in view of the following letter just received by Mrs. Henry Croft, regent of the Provincial Chapter, to take donations of comforts at the headquarters, Temple building.

69 Grosvenor St., London, W., Oct. 27.

Dear Madam:

We are addressing this appeal to you in the hope that you will interest your association in our work and also make it known as widely as possible among those women in your locality who are working for our soldiers.

When the Canadian expeditionary force left Canada Miss Arnoldi and I were appointed by the minister of militia to accompany them and continue the work we had begun at Valcartier, namely, the distribution of field comforts. This work has been approved by the British war office. It was realized in Canada, as it is here, that it is very necessary and important. The women of Canada are working so hard and so enthusiastically that we feel that they will appreciate to the full a direct channel for their supplies and also the personal touch which it gives. Very careful inquiries will be made and detailed lists obtained from each regiment as to its exact requirements.

The Canadian War Contingent association, which has been formed here to further the interests of our force in every way, has among its objects the collection and distribution of field supplies. The Hon. G. H. Perley, M. P., is the president. It may be interesting to note that each colony has a War Contingent association. The Canadian association has elected us to their executive and has appointed us their distributing agents. In this way overlapping or wasted effort will be prevented.

We shall need vast quantities of comforts and also money for an emergency fund. The men already here still require things in large numbers. Whole regiments have no cholera belts and many others are only partly supplied with these and other warm necessities.

The English papers are full of appeals for comforts for the British "Tommies" and it behooves us Canadian women to look after our own men. When once they are at the front there will be much replenishing to do and it is proposed to have a distributing depot at the base wherever that may be, Salisbury Plain, of course, for the present. A house has been given to us in London for receiving and storing supplies and they will be acknowledged from there and forwarded to us as we require them. Free transport is promised and arrangements are being made for a receiving and forwarding depot at Montreal as the November sailings are all from there. Notices as to this will appear shortly in the Canadian press.

To give some idea of how necessary they consider comforts over here I may say that the Queen has appealed for 300,000 belts and 300,000 socks and Field Marshall Sir John French has made a special and urgent appeal for the immediate dispatch of belts. The demand is so great that it is very hard to get these supplies here, and we feel also that Canadian industries should benefit by the supplies for Canadians. We beg, therefore, that you will all come to our aid and make this work the big and complete thing it should be.

We shall be pleased to give any further information desired.

All packages should be clearly addressed to Miss Plummer, care of Montreal depot, and very plainly marked "field comforts."

All money should be sent to Miss Arnoldi, "field comforts fund," 4 Hyde Park Gate, London, S. W.

The following is a list of the requirements: Money for emergency fund—we should have $50,000. Cholera belts—asked for in thousands. Woven socks—we cannot have enough; the more hand-knit the better. These are the first and most important needs.

Handkerchiefs—colored; khaki preferred; sleeping caps, mufflers, wristlets, flannel shirts, underwear.

All outside articles of clothing should be khaki or grey in color.

If sending large quantities it is strongly recommended that they be put in cotton bags of 50 or 100 and packed in small packing cases. A complete list of contents with name and address of sender should be securely fastened inside the box.

We hope very much to have your support in this work, and be shall anxiously await your answer as to how you can help us.

Yours sincerely,
MARY PLUMMER

GUARDING THE FRONTIER

United States Cattle and Meat Being Kept Out on Account of Foot-and-Mouth Disease in Country.

The spread of foot-and-mouth disease in the United States is assuming alarming proportions. At first the outbreak seemed to be confined to the New England states, but it has rapidly advanced westwards, and is now very prevalent in Ohio, Wisconsin and Illinois. Strict quarantine is being enforced in several states, but in spite of all that is being done the disease would appear to be getting ahead of the authorities.

A couple of days ago foot-and-mouth disease was discovered among the large herd of prize stock which has been quarantined in the Union stockyards in Chicago, and yesterday it had progressed so far among the 836 animals confined there that it is now feared the infection will spread to every animal in a herd that is estimated to be worth $2,500,000. When it has been impossible to save this herd from the disease under conditions which would make quarantine easy, it can be imagined what chances there are to save those in some districts where the farmers are not prepared to fight it. It is twelve years since there was an outbreak in the United States, and in that, in 1902, it affected 4,712 cattle.

The quarantine regulations in this country are being very strictly enforced, says Dr. S. F. Tolmie, who is in charge of the work for this province, and it is believed that this will be the means of keeping out the disease, as on former occasions. It is forbidden to import animals, meat, fodder or anything that could conceivably bring in the germs of the disease in this country. There have been very serious epidemics of it in Prussia and in England, and the regulations in the old land which Canadians have been trying in vain for some years to have modified, as to the importation of live cattle from the Dominion, are designed to protect the home herds from any likelihood of infection.

"I am not greatly concerned about whether the wicked cease from troubling or not, because they seldom trouble me, the wicked being, I take pleasure in saying, considerably given to minding their own business," said J. Fuller Gloom, the well-known and detested misanthrope. "But if the immaculate and self-satisfied persons who are everlastingly endeavoring to reform somebody, anybody and everybody besides themselves would cease from troubling me, one of the weary whom I could name would get at least a portion of his much-needed rest."

EIGHT FOUND DEAD.

This morning just before noon, a discovery was made by a Seattle man who had just lately arrived in the city. On walking around the streets he made note of finding eight different stores absolutely dead, for want of business. The only store that was anyways crowded was "Mackinnon's." At this establishment they were doing a fine business owing to the great values they were offering in men's and children's furnishings. Mr. Mackinnon stated that he expected to be very busy on Saturday on account of his having a big sale of men's high grade suits at fifteen dollars and also selling his fine stock of overcoats at half price. My advice is don't miss this opportunity of outfitting yourself to-morrow. You'll never get such values in this city again.

A United Family. Irish would-be recruit.—"Beg pardon, captain, but the man in there won't let me go to fight because of me eye." Captain.—"Have you ever been in the army?" Would-be Recruit.—"I have, sorr." Captain.—"What regiment?" Would-be Recruit.—"Me brother was in the Leinsters." Punch.

A VISIT TO "WEILERS'"

I was worried to death wondering what to get for Christmas, for I'm so tired of spending day after day embroidering endless knick-knacks no one ever uses, when May suggested that we visit WEILERS', who always make a special effort to gather the most unique and beautiful things in their GIFT SECTION.

Well, we went there today, and that visit was a revelation to me, so much so, that I have decided to make this a Furniture Christmas. Just inside of the main entrance were two of the loveliest little Fumed Oak Jardiniere Stands with reed panels. Of course, I immediately coveted them. They are ever so much more convenient and artistic than the old style. The deep zinc lined well holds the plant, and the soft, beautiful shade of the wood harmonizes perfectly with the foliage. The cash price of $18.00 seems reasonable indeed for such an artistic gift.

The next "Treasure" that caught my fancy was a light brown Reed Tea Wagon, with glass tray, a deep well for refreshments, and a convenient lower shelf. The rubber tired wheels were another point in its favor. You know Maud had one, in mahogany, that cost $45.00. It is such a great convenience for the hostess who entertains frequently, that I always envied Maud. Well, I don't have to envy her any longer, for that little "treasure" of a Reed Tea Wagon at Weilers' is going to be mine, if I have to beg, borrow or steal the $22.50 to pay for it. It is too great a bargain to miss.

I found the dearest little gift for Nellie—a Mahogany Writing and Sewing Table combined, with gate pattern ends, that folds up into very small space. It will be just splendid for her living room. The writing table is covered in leather and contains an ink well, compartments for paper, envelopes, etc. While I was still admiring its convenience and completeness in every detail, the salesman lowered the desk portion to one side and raised the Sewing Table into position, revealing spool holders, several drawers for sewing essentials, and a cunningly concealed sewing bag, also racks for patterns, etc. A glance at the tag revealed the cash price of $27. Another cunning little Work Table in fumed oak, with a gaily patterned sewing bag, was marked at a cash price of $4.50.

So I've made up my mind there'll be no useless knick-knacks this year. Unlike the expensive bauble that soon loses its charm, a useful gift bears the good will long after the festive season
